La Conference Described Dogs Fight, Men Also. Rome and Carthage—Then. Japan and America—Now.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

In his chapter "On the Art of Conferring," Montaigne has a few words that tell all there is in the Washington performance. Ruthlessly confided to the fury of telegraphers and printers the words, in slightly archaic French, are:

"Le plus fructueux et naturel exercice de nostre esprit, c'est, a mon gre, la conference: l'en trouve l'usage plus doulx que d'aulcune aultre action de nostre vie."

That is it exactly—pleasant, natural, agreeable mental exercise, good to sharpen the wits, but not productive of immediate results.

Montaigne says, if forced to choose, he would lose his sight before speech or hearing. He would say it today especially, with Briand speaking for France.

Did you read what various thinkers had to say yesterday? Hanotaux, who once held Briand's place as French Premier said: "If one wants to fight, one can as easily do so with ten cruisers as with twenty."

Shaw wrote: "The notion that disarmament can put a stop to war is contradicted by the nearest dog fight.

"If you put a muzzle on a fighting dog, he'll still go through the motions and the growlings of a fight, although unable to bite."

Lady Astor, able young American woman, sitting in a House of Commons seat that New York real estate gave her, says: "To sweep away the defensive forces of the world, when lawlessness and unrest are rife, is not practical politics."

Reventlow—who knows—says that submarine war cannot be controlled except, of course, by the ablest submarine power. He adds, what has been said here, that submarines can be built secretly. You need not advertise your work. In his opinion, "the United States could, with a large U-boat fleet, probably force a permanent peace.

That is the best suggestion. It is the business of an intelligent grown man to stop fighting among boys. This nation, with the right submarine and flying fleets, could force peace on others for their good. Without those fleets others will force war on us. You may have seen many a little man slapped, but you've never seen any one slap Dempsey.

Admiral Sims, student of naval warfare, urges modern methods on the United States. The battleship is now where the bludgeon was after the rifle came in.

"The battleship is as obsolete as Henry the Eighth's Royal Harry. The submarine and the battleplane are what the admiralties will fight with in the future," says Sims.

Rear Admiral Fiske, who could give the President good advice, says truly, "the United States has never been prepared for war when war came, and never prepared for peace when peace came."

He says this country will not last long if it continues neglecting preparedness.

There were once two nations looking at each other across the Mediterranean—as big then, in proportion, as the Pacific now. Those two nations, Rome and Carthage, did not like each other, and both knew it. Rome was a strictly fighting nation, as Japan is; Carthage, a highly prosperous, trading nation, as we are. In those days they said what they thought, and regularly one old Roman remarked: "Carthage must be destroyed."

Carthage had lorded it over Rome, had told her where she might and might not trade, just as other ships might and might not war came, and when it ended there was no Carthage. Read in Winwood Reader's "Martyrdom of man" what a complete beating poor Carthage got. The Romans destroyed the great city, scattered salt where it once stood, that even grass might not grow here.

After that Rome colonized on the fertile shores of North Africa, shipped in wild beasts for the arena from land and from places once ruled, honored with the title "Africanus" certain great Roman fighters.

Men do not change in 1900 years. Japan and America now look at each other across the Pacific that flying machines will soon cross in half the time it took galley slaves to row across the Mediterranean. Japan is saying to herself of America what Cato said out loud of Carthage.

We are not Carthaginians, better perhaps, although no nation ever had a fighter better than their Hannibal. But if we don't want Japanese heroes honored with the title "Admiral of Africa," if we do not want Japanese to use California's fertile soil as the Romans used the north shore of Africa, we should do well to think of making the country stronger, NOT weaker.

Even Carthage was never foolish enough, when Rome threatened, to suggest reducing her armaments in a spirit of brotherly love.

When we hear Japan demand an unlimited supply of "plane carriers" we need no other warning. Cato never said it as plainly as that.

Plane carriers are offensive weapons, the latest and deadliest. Japan wants them—every military man knows it—to sent TNT-carrying flying machines with

PELLETIER CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT

Sensation in Gordon Hearing

RECEIVED SUGRUE'S STOCK

Transfer Made to Cover Police Captain's Margin, His Attorney Says

Testimony showing transfer of hundreds of shares of stocks from the account of Daniel Sugrue, attache of the office of Attorney Daniel H. Coakley, to the account of former police captain Herbert Gordon, was the startling feature of the hearing of Gordon's petition for reinstatement to office when it was resumed before Chief of Police J. J. McBride, in the Cambridge City Hall today.

Gordon was removed by Chief McBride following revelations at the trial of former District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts, of Middlesex county. The former policeman was attached to the district attorney's office.

When the hearing opened William H. Lewis, attorney for Gordon, immediately placed on the stand Charles H. Caughey, bookkeeper employed by the brokerage firm of Charles Head & Co. of Boston, and former Assistant District Attorney George Stanley Harvey.

Caughey, first on the stand, identified a transcript of Gordon's account with the brokerage firm, covering transactions from the opening of the account on March 6, 1917, to August 31, 1921.

The witness testified the account was opened with the transfer of 100 shares of Aetna Explosive stock from the account of Sugrue to Gordon. He also brought out that on various occasions there were transfers from Sugrue's account to that of the deposed police officer which included 100 shares of Inspiration, 100 shares of Atlas Tack and $6,500 in cash.

Attorney Lewis explained that this testimony was introduced in support of Gordon's contention that, the request of his family, Sugrue had put up stock to cover Gordon's account when it needed more margin.

Cross-examination brought out that in May, 1919, Gordon took stock in the Sinclair Oil, Bethlehem Steel and Southern Pacific companies to the amount of $44,000.

Attorney Drew, for the city, then tried to get Caughey to testify that this was transferred from the account of Daniel H. Coakley, but the witness declared the stock was purchased on the New York Stock Exchange.

Former Assistant District Attorney Harvey was then called to the stand and testified that he had sent Gordon, then in Tufts office, to interview "Poco" Bennett at various times. Harvey admitted that he was a friend of Gordon.

THINKS WOMAN KILLED HUSBAND AND SELF

East Haddam, Ct., Nov. 21.—Mrs. John Woodcock, who was found hanging from a balustrade in her home yesterday while the body of her husband was found in the kitchen, probably killed the latter and then hanged herself, in the opinion of Medical Examiner Plunkett. He believes the woman shot her husband through the forehead, poured oil over his body as it rested against a table, and set a fire which she later put out. She then apparently, hanged herself.

TWO ON PROBATION HELD FOR ATTEMPTED BREAK

Thomas J. Manning, of Norfolk avenue, on probation from the Superior Court, James Conion, of Robey street, on probation from Shirley Reformatory, and Vinyat Minutte, of Norfolk avenue were held in $500 each in the Roxbury court today on a charge of attempting to break and enter the building at Batchelder and Burrell streets owned by Isaac Herman. The case was continued to Wednesday.

BRIDE-TO-BE RESCUED FROM FLAMES IN ROXBURY

MISS ANNA ELKINS

Young woman who is soon to wed was among the panic stricken women who were in peril when a fire started in an apartment house on Hollander street. The mother of Miss Elkins collapsed when she thought escape was cut off. Some of those who were in the building were carried to safety. The fire started while all the occupants of the apartment house were in bed.

ROXBURY BLAZE DRIVES WOMEN HYSTERICAL

15 Persons Driven Out in Night Clothes by Fire on Holander Street

Screams of hysterical, panic-stricken women, gave an almost tragic touch to the fire that drove fifteen persons from their homes in a three-story wooden apartment house at No. 65 Hollander street, Roxbury, early today.

All were clad in their night clothes and many had to be carried to the street, so crazed by fear were they. The fire did about $500 damage.

The blaze started in the apartment of Abraham Elkins on the second floor. Mrs. Elkins collapsed when she found, as she believed, that her escape was cut off and had to be carried to the street.

Miss Anne Elkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elkins, who is soon to be a bride, was saved from the flames.

GIRL ESCAPES UNHURT IN FITCHBURG CRASH

Fitchburg, Nov. 21.—A sedan, driven by Miss Dorothy DeBlois, of No. 8 Electric avenue, was badly damaged today at the corner of Main and Oliver streets when it was struck by a car driven by Torstan Mendilon, of Ashburnham. Miss DeBlois escaped injudy. Mendilon was arraigned in the local court on a charge of reckless driving and his case was continued until tomorrow.

7 RESCUED IN SALEM BLAZE

Aged and Sick Are Carried to Street as Three Tenement Blocks Burn

Seven men and women, several of whom were sick in bed, were rescued by police and firemen and thirty others driven to the streets in their night clothing, in a general alarm fire early today that badly damaged three three-story tenements at No. 125 Essex street and Nos. 2 and 6 Hawthorne boulevard, Salem.

The damage is estimated at $20,000. Exact cause of the fire has not been determined, but Deputy Fire Chief Keen believes it started from a carelessly thrown cigarette on the second floor of the tenement house at No. 125 Essex street.

The rescued, all living at No. 2 Hawthorne boulevard, were:

Joseph Senay, seventy-five years old, who lives with married daughter, Mrs. Delia McKinnon. Carried to the street by police.

Mrs. Ella L. Pondeau, sixty-years old, and her married daughter, Mrs. Eliza Garret, who was sick in bed. Carried to safety by police, assisted by eighteen-year-old Louis Garret.

Mrs. Abbie Hallisey, seventy-five years old. Rescued by police.

Mrs. Annie Donnelly, sixty years old, and son, Joseph, thirty years old, who was ill in bed, carried through smoke-filled hallways to the street.

Mrs. Mary E. O'Neil, sixty-two years old, and daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Fruez, carried to street. The latter's two children, Louis, aged eighteen, and Dorothy, eight years old, reached the street unassisted.

The three tenements are owned by the Feenan estate, and are conducted by Frank Englehart, who resides in the block at No. 123 Essex street. In the house at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Englehart, and two lodgers, Lawrence Croke and Alfonse Dumers.

The fire was discovered by Dumers, who was awakened by the sound of burning framework. Opening the door, he was met with a gust of thick, black smoke.

Shouting to Englehart and the other lodger, he made his way to the street, where he sounded an alarm.

The fire assumed such threatening proportions twenty minutes after its discovery that Fire Chief Kimball or-

BRIAND IN PLEA FOR BIG ARMY

France, Menaced by Germans, Dare Not Disarm, Premier Tells Parley

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Rising to the full height of his fiery Latin eloquence, Premier Briand of France delivered an impassiond speech to the world today in justification of France's maintenance of a great standing army.

He passionately and eloquently pleaded with the powers that France dare not disarm, asserting that on her doorstep sits the old Prussian militarism that attacked her in 1914, ready to strike again at a moment's notice.

He asked the nations sitting about the great horseshoe table to put themselves in France's stead, surrounded by a menacing ring of foes, the greatest of whom are Germany and Russia.

Would the world, he asked, demand that France disarm before a possible flood of anarchy and militarism pouring out of Russia and Germany?

"What would you do?" he said, and then answered his own question by declaring "You would say we must have an army."

"WHAT WOULD YOU DO."

"You in America," he said, looking around at the galleries crowded with breathless people, "what would you do with this menace always at your door, always ready to fight you again? Would you turn away your eyes and lose your life and, what is more precious, your honor?

"No!" he shouted.

France already, Briand said, had cut down her army to almost the lowest possible point consistent with national safety.

The French army, he said, has been cut down one third already and would still further be reduced.

"Tomorrow," he said, "we will have cut down to one half."

The premier pointed out that laws were pending in the French Chamber of Deputies decreasing the period of compulsory military service from three to one and one-half years.

"We are," Briand said, "have been taken by France as an evidence of her willingness to do her utmost to realize the ideal of reduced armament.

No promises for the future other than those were made by the French

JAPAN PLOTS BLOW AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

By CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR.

Written Exclusively for Universal Service. Copyright 1921, by International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Japan's ingrained militarism and her ambitious program for mighty capital ships have been declared by diplomats to have prompted President Harding to call the disarmament conference.

Whether Japan's scheming was the real cause for the President's action or not, it is a fact that the call followed soon after the United States authorities learned of a broad plan, said to have been conceived by Japan, in order to gain mastery of the Pacific by completely isolating the United States from the vastly rich markets of the Far East.

SECRET MAP OF PACIFIC.

This plan embodied a secret map of the Pacific, the most comprehensive map of its kind so far known.

What was the strategy contained in this Japanese plan? What was its dominant idea?

To shut out the United States from the Far East; and so to encompass her with naval barriers that she would be unable to cope with Japanese Imperialism and commercialism in eastern Asia.

Let us envisage some of the outstanding features of this map and disclose what its culmination would have meant to American aims and aspirations.

It is a stab at the heart of American sea communications with Guam and the Philippines.

It divides the Pacific into Japanese and British spheres of "naval influence." It allots to the United States that portion of the North Pacific ad-

WITNESS REFUTES CLAIM OF 'BLUEBEARD'

Versailles, Nov. 21 (by the Associated Press).—The dramatic announcement by Henri Landru last week that one of the ten women for whose murder he is on trial here lived at a Paris hotel six months after her alleged murder, today proved to be a boomerang. The prosecution said a police investigation had shown that Madame Hoon, the alleged victim in question, had never lived at the address Landru gave, but that instead they had found a witness to contradict Landru's testimony. This witness appeared today and testified that Madame Hoon had lived with Landru at one of his numerous apartments where the prisoner previously had testified she had never been.

PAYS FINE AFTER VISIT OF SMOOTH STRANGER

Edward A. Abadjian of Haverhill street, Watertown, had an extra pint of the "stuff that cheers" in his hip pocket which he wished to dispose of. And would the slick-looking stranger whom he met in the village barber shop takeaon take it off his hands for a paltry $2? The stranger would and, whereupon he suavely announced he was a plainclothes man of the police department and would be pleased to meet Abadjian in court. It was fined $50.

SPRINGFIELD AUTOIST IS HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Springfield, Nov. 21.—Louis J. Powers, Jr., son of the president of the Powers ager Manufacturing Company, was arrested today, charged with manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in court and furnished $2,000 bail for appearance December 5.

Powers ran down and fatally injured Mrs. Margaret A. Thomas of Dwight street last Thursday, the police charged. Her body was not identified until Sunday.

ROXBURY YOUTH DENIES CARRYING REVOLVER

John J. Manning, nineteen years old, of Norfolk avenue, Roxbury, pleaded not guilty in the Roxbury Court today to a charge of carrying a loaded revolver, of making a threatening demand upon Benjamin Goldblatt, proprietor of a store at No. 75 Norfolk avenue, and of breaking glass in the store. He was held in $500 for a hearing next week.

CAMPAIGN SPEECHES ATTACKED BY ALLEN

Latest Move Believed Planned to "Speed Up" Trial of District Attorney

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen today filed new information against District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier with the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

It charges that Pelletier has been guilty of contempt of court in some of his campaign speeches and has proven himself unfit to hold the office.

This new information is an action entirely separate from the original proceeding against Pelletier for alleged malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office.

In some quarters it is accepted as a drive to "speed up" trial of the accused Suffolk County District Attorney. It is a much simpler action than the involved proceeding first brought against Pelletier, it is pointed out.

It could be prepared and tried much more quickly. Shrewd observers are not wanting who say that it will be given priority over the old complaint and that Pelletier will first go on trial on the charge of contempt of court.

QUOTES ALLEGED SPEECH.

The information filed today concerns Attorney-General Allen's charge that Pelletier in his campaign for the mayoralty made the following statement at a rally:

"There is a dirty, low-down propaganda going throughout the city that I am going to resign. Tell the man who tells you that he is wrong. If he persists tell him he is a liar. Back it up and I will not prove the case."

Allen further charges that Pelletier ended the address in which he made this alleged statement by saying: "I am not making any cheap political speech. I am giving you facts."

Following the filing of the charges today Chief Justice Rugg instructed that the order of notice be issued returnable next Wednesday morning at 9.30. At that hour Pelletier will be in court.

Attorney-General Allen in a deposition attached to the new information against the district attorney of Suffolk County states that he has "personally investigated the charges therein made, having received many affidavits from witnesses who will be produced to substantiate the allegations of the information touching said charge, and that he believes the investigation so made was truthful and accurate and that it sustains all the allegations made."

ALLEN'S DEPOSITION.

He charges that Pelletier made the appeal to his political followers to "back up" their statements in defence of him not once, but twice.

His deposition concludes: "I further depose and say that the result of said investigation reveals a condition of affairs relating to the prosecution of

BOSTON SCHOONER GOES ON ROCKS AT DEER ISLAND

Jonesport, Me., Nov. 21.—The 79-ton schooner Maude S., bound to Calais from Boston with phosphate, ran ashore on Mansfield's ledge at the east end of Deer Island early today. The crew escaped. The schooner was breaking in two and was expected to be a total loss. She was owned by G. F. Mansfield of this town and uninsured.

St. John's N. F., Nov. 21.—The steamer Farm, 972 tons, was wrecked today off St. Shotts, on the South coast of Newfoundland. Her crew was saved. She was enroute from North Sydney to St. John's, with a cargo of coal.

WOMEN NAMED AS REGISTRARS OF VOTERS

Back Bay and West End Appointees First of Sex Named by Mayor Peters

Four new assistant registrars of voters in the election department were appointed by Mayor Peters today at a salary of $1,000 a year. Among the appointees are two women, the first he has appointed to this office.

Those appointed were: Miss Gertrude Smith of No. 28 Hemingway street, Back Bay; Miss Lotus B. Thompson of No. 19 Joy street, West End; Frank F. Tripp, No. 27 Whiting street, and John Young, Jr., of No. 1 Gayhead street.

Miss Smith has been the Mayor's telephone operator ever since he assumed office. The appointments are all for the term ending in September 1922.

The mayor also issued a statement in which he warns prospective voters that the time for registration for the coming city election would close promptly at 10 p. m. next Wednesday.

He stated that the time was fixed by statute and could not be changed. In order to give opportunity to all who have delayed registration the mayor has authorized the employing of additional men in all of the wards, so that from now until the closing time registration booths will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

DEPOSITORS OF PRUDENTIAL TO GET DIVIDEND

Allen Gets Permission to Pay 12½ Per Cent. on Bank's Savings Account

Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen today was authorized by Judge Decourcey of the Supreme Court to pay a second dividend of 12½ per cent. to depositors in the savings department of the Prudential Trust Company.

To pay the dividend will require $109,773.95. The commissioner has $110,056.08 on hand.

Under a decree of May 21 the bank commissioner paid to savings bank depositors whose claims had been allowed a dividend of 33 1-3 per cent., and depositors who have proved their claims are to receive a dividend equal to that paid to the depositors in May last. The total amount of claims proved in the savings department is $573,562.64.

There are in litigation in the commercial department of the Prudential Trust Company disputed claims to the amount of $408,452.32. Included in these claims for priority made by the United States to the amount of $12,000; the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, $40,000; Francis A. Campbell, clerk of the Superior Court, $11,463.56; city of Cambridge, $5,731.62.

Mr. Allen has filed a petition asking leave to pay a first dividend of 10 per cent. to the creditors of the commercial department. He says he has on hand $609,506.15 to meet total proved claims of $941,187.11, and $191,953.83 is available to pay a dividend of 10 per cent.

The unfitigated commercial claims total $737,802.17, the original net claims proved against the savings department are $876,021.43, making a grand total of liabilities of $1,673,823.60.

facent to its western shores and the Hawaiian Islands. It also affects the waters immediately surrounding Guam and the Philippines.

Furthermore, it brings into prominence the mystery island of Saipan, less than two hundred miles from Guam, and almost directly severing American communications.

"I have learned from unquestioned sources that this island, almost within gunshot of Guam, constitutes the main Japanese submarine base in the Pacific. She has submarines there now, of large cruising radius. She has an aviation base either on Saipan or on one of the adjacent mandated islands.

"American naval authorities have been suspicious of Saipan for some time, so suspicious, in fact, that they sent recently four submarine mines and destroyers to our base at Guam.

"After this plan came into my possession, I set on foot personal investigation, with a view to ascertaining the real reasons underlying it. These investigations, lasting several weeks, may be summed up as follows:

"Japan approached England about six months ago with a view to seeking British co-operation for her widespread designs. She offered England, it is said, complete sway over the South Pacific, in return for British support of her ambitions in the North Pacific and Far Eastern waters.

U. S. LEARNED OF PLAN.

"Japan was willing to acquiesce in such a plan by reason of the existence of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. The British are understood to have surveyed the Japanese schemes with cold indifference.

"The United States authorities, through secret channels, soon learned of the wholesale manner in which Japan planned to slice up the Pacific. They learned of the Japanese proposals to England.

"It was the consensus of opinion in diplomatic circles that this Japanese plan was equivalent to a threat against the United States. To offset this menace, the American naval authorities drew up plans of naval operations looking forward to any possible future combination of the Anglo Japanese fleets. Then followed the conference.

COPIES OF MAP DECLINED.

Conclusive evidence of the existence of this map will shortly be forthcoming. It is now in the possession of Universal Service and its nation-wide publication is but a matter of a few days.

How the map and its accompanying data came into my possession I am not at liberty to divulge. Suffice to say that the statements made herewith are by no means exaggerated, but as the result of proof and careful investigation.

"To bring these plans to the attention of the proper authorities I considered a patriotic duty. While engaged in this duty, I learned that our authorities had already been apprised of its existence.

"I was additionally to present a photographic copy of the map to the American Advisory Council. This I expected to do, but the chairman of the council did not deem it advisable to accept it. I then attempted to present photographic copies to our officials, but their only explanation for not accepting it was that we were not discussing Japan, instead of Germany.

BIG SCHEME OF CONTROL.

The map is English, but the data relating to the Pacific and Far East which have been sketched in, is approximately in the following manner:

Summed up, this map boasts Japan in the following manner: It deeds to her undisputed responsibility in Far Eastern waters, barring those adjacent to the Philippines, and a narrow corridor leading to Guam.

It affords to China but a narrow strip along the Chinese coast. China has no navy to speak of. Japan has responsibility for peace, on the Japanese navy.

It transforms the Okhotsk Sea, Japan Sea, the Yellow Sea and the East China Sea into Japanese lakes, practically circumscribed by Japanese fortifications.

It gives to Great Britain actually superiority in the South Pacific, together with a small patch of surrounding Hong Kong, and another patch of several thousand square miles north of the equator, surrounding Canning Island.

SHUTTING OFF U. S.

One fact of peculiar interest to United States is that, although United States has a Far Eastern continental zone of naval influence, one zone is separated from the latter by a large body of water over which the Japanese navy assumes responsibility.

In fact, American merchant naval vessels steaming to the Philippines from the Hawaiian Islands must of necessity cross one thousand miles of Japanese patrolled waters, which is the nearest connection between the two American zones.

FRANCE CANNOT DISARM, SAYS BRIAND

Germans Preparing to Strike Again, Premier Tells Washington Parley

premiers, and he merely pointed to them as indicating France's desire to escape the accusation of being imperialistic in her military policy.

READY TO STRIKE AGAIN

He painted a vivid picture of German militarism not dead, but merely lying dormant, ready to strike at France again when the moment arrives, just as it did in 1914.

The premier said:

"You may realize that I, a delegate of France, feel great emotion at addressing this honorable council. I thank you for the greeting and I thank the conference for permitting me this opportunity for France to appear in her true colors before the whole world.

"Nothing is more agreeable to France," he said, "than to tell the conference that France stands ready to make the most sacrifices and contribute most to the era of peace.

"United States has declined, we cannot, we have not the right to do so. I will explain the position of France. France wants peace, one must be sure of one's neighbors.

"I speak of land armies. It is not sufficient to destroy the materials of war. There is another phase most important. There must also be with disarmament a guarantee of peace.

"There must be a moral disarmament. Until Europe now there are all the elements of instability.

FOR SAFETY OF FRANCE

"France must face them and measure them in terms of her own safety. I came from a country where many men know from personal hatred it while their blood was flowing. They saw in that blood the blood of France flowing away.

"These men I thank for all they have done for France—saving her fair face from disfigurement.

"But here, in this great country, where no frontier is alarming, no hand does not come handy, it is difficult to picture the situation of France.

"Here you see that the war is over, Germany beaten, peace signed.

"Why, you ask, peace from Europe? It is hard to make you see that when France takes this position, it is because she wants to assure peace.

"To reproach France for her position is the most cruel thing that could be done and to permit her to be victimized by her real terrors is the saddest thing in the world. To criticise her by accusing her of imperialistic desires is most unjust.

"If any nation has kept faith and honor among nations France has. France has watched Germany turn traitor to her obligations, neglect her reparations.

"There is no hate in France for any one. She would wish to be friends with Germany side by side. But France has not the right to weaken herself to encourage others to certain war.

"There is a Germany composed of noble, disinterested workers who want to be fair and re-establish Germany among decent nations. This Germany, we want to help. But there are others who, learning nothing from the war, keep all the ambitions of the Hohenzollerns. This Germany we live beside.

"THE OLD GERMANY."

"No one can have misunderstood the coup d'etat that has shown the revival of old Germany.

"I want to read two or three passages from a philosopher and man that Germany calls great."

Here the Premier read some extracts of sayings from Ludendorff, and Moltke justifying war.

"We must live," he quoted, "that this war was part of the divine order of things, that it was a natural phenomenon.

"Without war the whole world sinks in the slough of material things. War is the only way to settle political difficulties. It is the touchstone of all world conscience—and especially in Germany.

"The spirit of the old army is the spirit that must give Germany her resurrection.

"And this," continued the premier, passionately, "is what put millions of men under the sod. And this nation that glories in it sits on the doorsill of France."

Briand stopped then that what he had been saying might be translated for the benefit of those about the table who did not speak French.

When the interpreter had finished he continued:

"America's soldiers, who fought side by side with Frenchmen to save France, have returned to America with a true picture of their country. They know, he declared, France's danger.

The fiery Premier took a leaf from the book of Balfour and asked his hearers to put themselves in France's place. American borders, he pointed out, are safe, impregnable from attack from without. America, he said, "has no powerful, tricky neighbors to constantly menace her peace and security."

"Briand spoke with impassioned earnestness, gesturing home his points with vigorous gestures. There were frequent bursts of applause when he announced the determination not to allow Germany to repeat her villainy of 1914.

"WAR CREATED BY GOD."

He especially asked his hearers to note the quotations from Ludendorff and Moltke, who, he said, still had considerable influence in the Germany of today.

Briand quoted Ludendorff as saying: "War was created by God. It develops the noblest nature of man, courage and the spirit of sacrifice."

Briand quoted Moltke: "War will be the political solvent of the future, the cornerstone of all policies of the future, and especially Germany. Warlike tests of Prussian law, put to test on the battlefield, will be the qualities that will insure her future greatness."

After the war, in Europe, with its colossal toll of blood and human sacrifice, haw, Briand asked, can France close her eyes to the menace that springs up from such conditions?

When it is a question of war, modern war materials are necessary and these times enormous supplies and enormous numbers of men, he declared.

Briand said it would not be him, who would underestimate the heroism of the German soldiers, who have suffered four years of war. They are not in regiments but they are still heroic and ready, he said.

"What can I do?" he asked, and then he answered his own question, by saying:

READY FOR ACTION.

"They are mostly officers of the old army."

"They are not working at rehabilitation of Germany," he declared. No! they have secret schools from the ministry of war to hold themselves in readiness for war. They could be mobilized in a moment."

When peace became so menacing, Briand said, that the first minister of Germany declared that 200,000 men could be mobilized and armed in short order.

Briand paid a compliment to Chancellor Wirth, the present head of the German government. He characterized his as a "sincere man" who wanted to fulfill the promises already made by the German government in a feeble one and constantly menaced by extremist socialist plots.

"There is another police force," he said, "of 150,000 men, officers of past wars who could be armed in short order, so that instead of having a mere police force of 150,000 men Germany has trained and ready to equip a splendid army of 250,000 men. These men, he charged, have not entered a time pursuits, but have been kept in readiness for the grim work of war.

Every anniversary ,he said, passionately, gives them a chance to parade under the pretext of peace.

"These are facts," Briand shouted, "facts verified and not guesses. I give them to you in justification of our plea."

"Behind even these 250,000 armed soldiers," he said, were six or seven millions of men who could be mobilized in due course."

"I ask America," he said, "to look at this nation which for ages has been the enemy of France—ready to fight us again—and I ask you, what would you do if she were your neighbor?"

"There is not a citizen of America, who would not say 'we must have an army.'"

It is a mistaken belief, Briand asserted that Germany has no materials of war. The French, he said, had made a survey and found that there were plenty of materials.

Germany, he pointed out, is a huge industrial plant, with every factory pointed toward the possibility of being converted to war purposes.

Not only are these industries going full blast in Germany, he said, but German financiers own them in other countries.

"Guns are being made," he declared, "and who can restrain them or survey them?

"Prussia become peaceful? We have bled for thinking that before.

in easy flying distance of enemy cities. For home use and home defence no need of ships to carry the flying machines.

Why the Japanese want those machines is for ordinary intelligence to tell you. They are not needed for China or Korea.

Japan, since Perry let her out of the Asiatic bottle, has not known defeat. She beat China, with ten times her population and many times her wealth, with ridiculous ease. She easily defeated the mighty Russia that sent Napoleon home, conquered, and on to St. Helena.

This is not China or Russia, you say? But China and Russia are both bigger than America. Europe hates or dislikes America, as then hate their creditors and benefactors. No European tears would flow if we had trouble.

This is the time, if ever, for Japan to come out of Asia and say: "I have as good a right to that new American continent as any. Europeans are using half of it; you have only been there a little while; you stole it from the Indians that had it. I can create fertile empires in the desert and swamp lands that you neglect. Make way for me."

If you DON'T want to make way for Japan on this soil, THIS is the time to make that clear. Our friends in Canada might think of that also. They have some very good land for truck gardening.

FEARS EXPERTS AT ARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Italian Historian Warns of Danger to Hughes Plan From Technical Advisors

By GUGLIELMO FERRERO

Copyright, 1921, by Universal Service.

Rome, Nov. 21.—What constitutes the formidable importance of the local and decisive proposals concerning disarmament formulated by Secretary Hughes at the first session of the Washington conference?

The answer—That for the first time one of the greatest States of the world has taken the initiative in formulating the conditions on which that State should be disposed to limit armaments.

Up to now all of the powers have failed to declare that they were ready to limit armaments, or even to disarm, or that at least war was no one to take the first step.

Everyone wanted some neighbor to set the example. Hence, nobody moved and everybody continued feverishly to arm.

The United States has done that which the great powers of the contents—Italy, England and France—should have done, if their governments had been able to rise to the height of the lofty aim of a truly worthy victory achieved.

A CRITICAL MOMENT.

Germany was the home of this monster which must be destroyed. This monster which menaced all western civilization with destruction.

Instead of destroying the monster, the visitors have more or less taken the place of Germany as worshippers of the monster.

The United States is thus attempting to extract from the victors the great benefit which it contained, but which Europe overlooked at the peace congress at Paris, when it could have saved the world from ruin.

I should say that Secretary Hughes has confronted the world with its conscience. He has led the world from the morbid contradictions that have maimed it for so many years of preparing for wars while avowing a desire for peace; of drifting towards barbarism while affirming, day and night, that it was working for civilization.

What a blessing it will prove for the whole world if it succeeds. But if it fails, the world will be precipitated into yet more profound anarchy.

NO OPPOSITION OPENLY.

Let nobody be deluded by the favor with which the great plans of peace have received. After so many lies, so many contradictions, so many perplexities, this favor sounds almost unreal and displeased.

The American proposals will be greeted with bows and benevolent smiles. Nobody will dare oppose openly. But what insidious manoeuvers will lurk behind her back in the matter of technical details and practical conditions in secret discussions among the various commissions.

Already I seem to hear the so-called experts—the invisible rocks hidden under the waters which, already, at Paris, have shipwrecked many good proposals.

Nor are the technicians the only danger. Limitation of armaments is not possible if the ambitions and jealousies dictating behind armaments are not also limited.

BROCKTON MAN SETS REPUTATION AGAINST WIFE'S 'NO GOOD' CHARGE

HOPES SHE IS GIVEN DIVORCE

William Lee Howes of Brockton, whose romantic elopement to Boston in 1914 with Blanche Tolman, daughter of the wealthy Tolmans' of Brockton, primitive fame, has now resulted in a divorce suit instituted by his wife, today refuted the allegation of his wife, eleven years his senior, that he "was absolutely no good and has not changed."

Howes, self-confessed army deserter, who resides with his mother at No. 223 Spring street, Brockton, told a Boston American reporter:

"I do not intend to contest the divorce suit because I have been foolish enough and I do not want people to think that I am entirely devoid of brains."

Mrs. Howes charges desertion, non-support, and cruel and abusive treatment in her specifications.

Howes played football and baseball at Brockton High, and for a time played baseball in the Eastern League.

PRAISE FROM COLONEL.

That a man "may be down but never out," is exemplified in a letter which Howes received from Lieutenant-Colonel E. S. West while serving his fifteen months' desertion sentence.

In his letter the colonel said:

"You know how it feels to slip and fall by the wayside. You know the joy experienced by those who have honestly endeavored to gain a firm footing, have mounted each difficulty and at last stand at the threshold of freedom and new opportunity.

"Howes, you have made good! Your wishbone has been transformed into a 'backbone.' As chief clerk in the Morale and Education and Recreation Office; as editor of the Barracks Monthly, 'Stray Shots,' and as instructor in the barracks schools, you have made good.

HAVE LEARNED LESSON.

"Mistakes don't make haystacks,' and it does no good to cry over spilled milk. But the thing that does count is the lesson learned by experience. You have learned yours. Keep up steam. You've trapped by the flames, but reached the street floor unassisted.

LIKES EXPENSIVE HOSIERY.

"At the time of our marriage I was earning about enough in one week to buy a couple pairs of silk hose, which the lady has always been fond of. Of course some hosiery would not take a very large sum, but she wore the kind that does.

"Anyway, I didn't care as much as I cared to swell the total of the Tolman fortune by paying her board at her own home, while I was away in the service.

"As to being 'absolutely no good,' I have lived in Brockton nearly all my life, and the lady has also lived there nearly all her life.

"People there know me and know her. I will take the chance of having the people who know both of us to be the judge as to whether this lady is right in saying that I was absolutely no good when I married her, and have not changed since, conservatively, I figure that I have 100 friends in Brockton to every one of hers.

"It seems to me that the lady would have dropped me long before this, if I had been no good. And as I have not the wisdom of Solomon, I cannot understand why she consented to stick to me if she thought that I was no good.

WISH HER LUCK.

"As to cruel and abusive treatment, I do not believe I am cruel and abusive by nature, and also always said that 'my Lee is the best natured boy that ever lived.' I wish the lady and her family the best of luck and success.

dered a second and a third and finally a general alarm.

That section of Essex street and Hawthorne boulevard is known as the "under box" section of Salem.

The fire swept through the roof of the Essex street building, and from there flames spread to Nos. 2 and 5 Hawthorne boulevard. The three wooden tenements were joined together, and were easy prey to the flames, according to police and fire officials. There was no protecting fire wall between any of them.

Firemen performed heroic work in confining the fire to the three buildings. One side of each and the roofs were badly damaged.

Three stores, Terrio Brothers, market, the restaurant of Michael Curtin on street floor of No. 5 Essex street, and a candy store were also damaged.

A cold, drizzling rain made it doubly uncomfortable for those who rushed to safety. They were given hot coffee by nearby restaurants, bundled in blankets, and were taken in for the remainder of the night by residents of lower Essex street.

Flying embers started small blazes on adjacent roofs, which were quickly extinguished.

For a time it was feared the fire would spread to the building of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and the Salem Father Mathew Society.

ATTACK GIRL'S TESTIMONY IN ARBUCKLE CASE

Attempt Will Be Made by Defence to Impeach Story of Zey Prevost

By International News Service.

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—The fate of Roscoe C. "Fatty" Arbuckle may be determinted today and tomorrow, despite the fact that it will require at least three more weeks to complete his trial for manslaughter.

The defense is prepared to spring a surprise, when Zey Prevost takes the stand. She and Alice Blake were scheduled to be heard today and tomorrow.

During the selection of the jury, Gavin McNab, chief counsel for the defense, charged that one of the girls had been unduly influenced by threats in telling her original story.

In dramatic manner, District Attorney Brady offered to resign if Mr. Nab should prove his statements. It is understood that during the cross examination of these witnesses Mr. Nab will endeavor to make good his charges.

Admittedly the State's case rests on the story of Zey Prevost and Alice Blake. Mrs. Bambina Maud Delmont, who swore to the murder complaint, is believed to have been completely eliminated from the case. Her story charging her with bigamy is in the hands of the police and probably will be served today.

It remains for the two show girl guests of the party to tell the State's version of what happened after the party and passing to the hands of defense counsel on cross-examination, a determined effort will be made to tear down their stories and to impeach the witnesses.

Dr. Francis Wakefield, at whose sanitarium Virginia Rappe died, was scheduled as the first witness today. Following his testimony it was probable that the jury would be taken to the St. Francis Hotel to view the suite in which "Fatty's" gay party was held. This had been scheduled for Saturday and was prevented by the half-holiday.

Defence counsel, although they fought against it, professed to be well pleased with the qualification of Grace Halstead, a nurse, as an expert. It is expected that the defence plans to place on the stand several nurses who attended Virginia Rappe, and, taking as a precedent the testimony of Miss Halstead for the State, will endeavor to have them give testimony as to her condition and the causes underlying it.

ASKS TO REOPEN MURPHY CASE

Edward Rose of Newton, wealthy wool merchant, named as correspondent in the divorce suit brought against Francesca Murphy, beautiful film star, by her husband, Joseph A. Murphy, wants the case reopened and the decree awarded to the husband quashed.

He filed a motion before Judge Callahan in Superior Court to that effect today.

Immediately afterward Murphy, through his attorneys filed another motion asking for the reopening of Rose's motion from the record.

From the filing of the suit by Murphy last October, Rose has persistently insisted that the case was simply an attempt to blackmail and that the accompanying suit for $100,000 for alleged alienation of Mrs. Murphy's affections was but part of the conspiracy.

In his motion he asks the court for time in which to prepare and file exceptions to testimony given at the trial of Rose, and Judge Callahan allowed him until November 25.

At the trial, where he was one of the star witnesses, Rose declared he had been guilty of the misconduct alleged against him by Murphy. He admitted he had been in the movie actress and had met her at the Copley-Plaza, the Georgian and other places.

Murphy, in his testimony, told of finding out that his wife had been unduly friendly with Edward Rose merchant last July when, he testified, he had seen a man's pajamas in the bathing in which the Murphy apartment was located, and later was able to identify the man as Rose.

Murphy said he had met his wife while she was teaching dancing in a Huntington avenue school. She had been married before.

Throughout the preliminaries and the trial itself Mrs. Murphy stoutly maintained her innocence of any wrong doing, declaring she was the victim of a trumped-up statutory charge.

She was a film actress before she met Murphy and supported Enrico Caruso in his film play "My Cousin."

Murphy's suit for $50,000 in alienation suit against Rose is still pending.

ESCAPED CONVICT IS CAUGHT IN HOULTON

Houlton, Me., Nov. 21.—Police here today identified "Charles Grant," who broke away from officers only to be recaptured and arrested, as Joseph Henley, who escaped from the state prison at Thomaston last July and who is wanted in three counties. Judge Archibald in District Court today ordered him returned to Thomaston to finish his eight-year term for breaking and entering and larceny.

WHAT PEGGY SAYS

"I got a black eye, to be sure, but I won a million dollars!" Peggy Joyce, the show girl, who cost "a million to marry and a million to get rid of," discusses her divorce and her next matrimonial venture, in an interview, with pictures, in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Fancy Lingerie in Films Is Not Immoral, Says B. U. Professor

Boston Movie Fans Will Not Have Their Moral Code Disregarded by Stars, Declares Authority on Drama

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE.

"'Undies' and fancy lingerie in the movies are not immoral. It rests with the spectator

"The moral tone of the movies is steadily increasing.

"Boston theatregoers will not have their moral code disregarded. The revelation of the private life of a star is a dynamic influence."

So says Professor Joseph R. Taylor of Boston University, professor of drama and head of the Greek department of the College of Liberal Arts. He is an ardent movie fan.

Professor George L. Ones of Youngstown, O., has forwarded that he will cross all Sunday movies in which there are films portraying bedroom farces with young women running around gaily in frilly undergarments.

His action may be all right for Youngstown movie shows, but from the viewpoint of Boston University professor, vulgarity results not from the showing of films with beautiful girls in fancy lingerie racing about, but from the attitude of the audience watching the presentation of such films.

When I asked if the Mayor-elect of Youngstown was justified, Professor Taylor, a man of commanding presence, threw up his chair closer to mine, stroked his beard and after deliberation replied:

"You've put the question to me. I don't see how it is possible to answer it any way but with an emphatic no. Fancy lingerie and scantinesses are not understood by the public.

"One person may regard a play as abstract, just touching on the vulgar, and to another it may be accepted high suggestive. It is all a matter, largely, of the moral tone of the spectator and partly of how much experience he has had in the underworld.

CITES BEDROOM FARCE.

"However, there is a great difference between plump damsels adorned with scanty suits parading sunny bathing beaches and the damsel seen silly adorned in fancy lingerie. To see pretty girls in pretty bathing costumes is an actual scene. Anyone who has seen the life at a watering place, or knows anything about it, is familiar with the sight of men and women in bathing suits. There is necessarily suggestive about such a scene.

"But the bedroom farce with abbreviated costumes is introduced for a very different reason. It does not represent a phase of life with which the average young spectator is familiar, and it is only in that respect that too many such films are suggestive and harmful. It is all up to the individual.

"Since you are a regular patron at the movies, surely you have become influenced by them. Have they moved you thinking that the moral tone of the movies is improving or growing lower?" I asked.

"Well," Professor Taylor smilingly replied "decidedly it is improving. To be a general idea that the tone of the movies is steadily deteriorating, I am distinctly of the opinion that in the better movie houses, and those are the only ones with which I am familiar, the moral tone is steadily increasing.

"Several that ten years ago were all too familiar—villains struggling with helpless young girls whom they had kidnaped—don't appear now. They appeared. The details of crook life, safe blowing, the administering of dope, and the unbound murder scene all this has practically been eliminated.

CLEAN STARS WANTED.

"As to the revelation about leading artists of stardom, it is an old question to what extent should a movie actor concern himself with the private life of those who appear before the public eye. If we were to insist on a pastor's certificate for every artist, the ranks of stardom would be fearfully depleted.

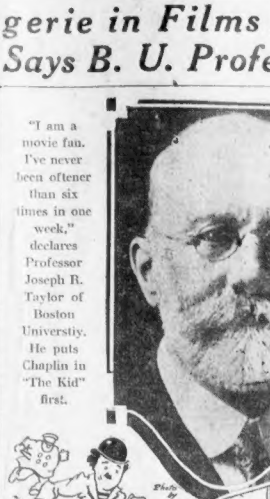
"It is perhaps a little too soon to predict the artistic future of certain men and women whose names are now filling the news columns, but in the long judge by events of former years, some of these men and women will find it very difficult to come back," to Boston at least."

"Have you a comic favorite actor, professor? Who is he?" I asked.

"That is the easiest question you have yet put to me," he replied emphatically. "I don't see how any one could mention any other name than Charlie Chaplin. Yes, I have followed his career from the beginning. I have kept up with him through his capture by the stage, the picture, the stage, and my admiration for him has steadily grown until now that he has reached the 'Shoulder Arms,' 'The Kid,' and 'The End of a Perfect Day' stage, I'd go far to see Charlie Chaplin in the movies.

"The day has long passed when a man need feel ashamed of or ashamed of Charlie Chaplin. He is, as one great actress said of him, 'an artist to the tips of his beautiful fingers.' I regard as his greatest play 'The Kid,' although I put 'Shoulder Arms' next. Does Chaplin actually appear in both?" I asked. "What about the other pro-

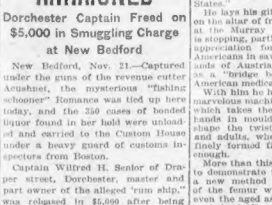
"I am a determined movie fan. I've never been oftener than six times in one week," Professor Taylor smilingly declared in conclusion.



"I am a movie fan. I've never been oftener than six times in one week," declares Professor Joseph R. Taylor of Boston University. He puts Chaplin in "The Kid" first.

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN IS AN ARTIST TO THE TIPS OF HIS BEAUTIFUL FINGERS"

"'UNDIES' AND FANCY LINGERIE IN THE MOVIES ARE NOT IMMORAL IT RESTS WITH THE SPECTATORS"



"THEY LOVE TO STEAL AWAY FROM EVERY CUMBERING CARE"

3 ARRESTED ON WHISKEY SHIP ARRAIGNED

Dorchester Captain Freed on $5,000 in Smuggling Charge at New Bedford

New Bedford, Nov. 21.—Captured under the guns of the revenue cutter Acushnet, the mysterious "fishing schooner" Romance was tied up here today, and the 250 cases of bonded liquor found on board were unloaded and carried to the Custom House under a heavy guard of customs inspectors from Boston.

Captain Wilfred H. Senior of Dorchester, owner, master and part owner of the alleged "rum ship," was released in $5,000 after being charged with smuggling 2,000 bottles of liquor. So were Ray Teixeira of Washington street, Boston, also part owner, and Israel Horvitz of Water street, this city, who was a passenger.

The Romance was captured when the Acushnet came suddenly within sight of her in a heavy fog. The rum-runner had dropped anchor close to No Man's Land Island, well within the three mile limit, and was, it is believed, waiting for small boats to put out from New Bedford and Newport to take away consignments of her cargo.

DEATH OF MOTHER AND CHILDREN ACCIDENTAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Laura Canse, her daughter, Laura, and her son, Leo, who were killed by a Boston & Maine train near the North Wilmington station Saturday morning, were held in St. Charles' Catholic Church, Woburn, today. The burial took place from the home of Mrs. Canse's brother-in-law, John Turrenne.

Talk among the neighbors of Mrs. Canse to the effect that she killed herself and brought about the death of the two children was discounted today by Chief of Police W. W. Hill of Wilmington, who declared that he had investigated the death of the family and was convinced that it was accidental. "Mrs. Canse was in the habit of using the short cut to the station along the track," said the chief today.

DR. LORENZ HERE TO 'PAY DEBT OF AUSTRIA'

Exponent of Bloodless Surgery Will Work Chiefly Among Poor on This Visit

New York, Nov. 21.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the wonder-working surgeon of Vienna, who 18 years ago cured little Lolita Armour, who had been so suffering from hip disease, has come back to New York "to pay part of the tremendous debt the children of America owe the people of the United States."

He says his gift of bloodless surgery on the altar of friendship, he explained at the Murray Hill Hotel, where he is stopping, partly in an effort to show appreciation for the "generosity of Americans in saving the lives of thousands of Austrian children," but also as a "bridge between Austrian and American medical men."

With him he has brought a new and marvelous machine, his own invention, which takes the place of the human hands in moulding and forcing into shape the twisted bones of children and adults, which by his own powerful finely formed fingers are not strong enough.

More than this, he says, he proposes to demonstrate to American surgeons a new method of treating the ankylosis of the femur whereby the adult and even the aged as well as children may be cured, if not altogether cured of their malady.

THANKS FOR AMERICA.

"I have come to work chiefly among the poor," he explained. In speaking of the increase of infantile paralysis among American children, "I am going to operate at the Post Graduate Hospital clinics with Dr. Albee of that institution."

In the eighteen years that have elapsed since Dr. Lorenz came here to treat Lolita Armour, now Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Jr., the celebrated surgeon has changed but little.

His six feet and more of bone and sinew are still erect and alert, his eyes are undimmed and his hands still instinct with nervous force. "He has eyes at the tips of his fingers," one surgeon said of him after watching him at work years ago.

"I have come to do what I can to repay you Americans for all you have done for my people," Dr. Lorenz added. "It is a debt we cannot hope to pay but if I may relieve some of the suffering of your little ones we shall feel that something has been done toward ongoing accounts.

"Thousands more of our babies would have died but for your generosity. I bring the fervent thanks of my country."

Dr. Lorenz left his eldest son, who for ten years has been his assistant at the great Vienna hospital, in charge of his work there. (He spoke of his work among the children.

"I use radium in some cases. I have brought a set of moving pictures showing my method. You see I could not bring the patients themselves, so I brought the pictures to show their deformities and how these have been cured or reduced.

"In Austria, due to malnutrition, the number of deformed children is increasing. Some of them are born hideously deformed. I have developed in working among these, new methods of orthopedic surgery, which I intend to demonstrate to the American medical world.

CAMBRIDGE MAN SLAIN AFTER DRINKING BOUT

Assailant Flees After Killing Victim Whom Police Had Arrested and Freed

Following a quarrel that broke up a party at No. 1 Foster street, East Cambridge, Frank Bearioli, twenty-seven years old, of No. 37 Warren street, East Cambridge, was shot and killed today on the street in front of the Foster street house.

Police of Cambridge and Lynn had learned the name of the man who did the shooting and expected an arrest hourly.

According to the police, Bearioli was one of a party of four men and two women who were gathered at the Foster street house. The police say that considerable wine had been drunk by some of those at the party and that a heated argument suddenly developed shortly after midnight.

To settle the affair, Bearioli and another man went out to the sidewalk in front of the house and there continued the row. Bearioli fell against and through the fence in front of the house. The argument grew so hot and loud that Patrolman Walsh heard the noise on another street and rushed to the scene.

When the officer arrived he placed Bearioli under arrest on the charge of disturbing the peace. The man was taken to the East Cambridge Police Station, where he was bailed out at 12:30 a. m. by Bail Commissioner John J. Mahoney.

BAXTER SEES BOSTON AS REPUBLICAN CITY

Charles S. Baxter, Republican candidate for Mayor, opened the third week of his campaign today with the announcement that he intends to prove "That Murphy will not receive a single Republican vote on election day."

Baxter planned today to make a number of addresses, including: The Ward 14 Republican Club on Williams street, Roxbury; the dance of the All Night Club, the Hester associates, Roxbury, and the Community Club, Charlestown.

"Vote for the best realize," declared the candidate today, "that the city is fairly evenly divided between Democrats and Republicans. I believe I is a Republican city. My opponents believe it is Democratic.

He attacked Curley, Pelletier and Murphy "for muddying one another instead of talking of campaign issues."

ROXBURY MAN ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

Fear of a second cerebral hemorrhage is believed to have been the motive that prompted John Turner, sixty years old, to fire a bullet into his head at his home, No. 27 Lambert avenue, Roxbury, today, it was stated by the arrival of a physician.

The physician said that Turner, who was a master teamster, suffered such an attack four weeks ago and that he had brooded over the possibility of a recurrence.

Howard J. Stearns, a stepsen, heard the shot and notified the police.

SOMERVILLE WIFE TRAILED HER HUSBAND

Worcester, Nov. 21. — Catherine Sawyer of Webster avenue, Cambridge, and Edward Donovan of Cornwall street, Somerville, were given six months jail sentences when they appeared in court today after appealed. Donovan and his companion were arrested in a Front street hotel by members of the Lawrence police who said she and two friends had trailed the pair here from Boston.

FIRE ON U. S. S. ALAMEDA IS PUT UNDER CONTROL

Washington, Nov. 21.—The fire on the naval oiler Alameda, which broke out Saturday and still burning today, though under control, the Navy Department was advised, as there was no fuel in her cargo, officers believed the flames soon would be extinguished. All hands were reported safe and uninjured. The Alameda was taken into Hampton Roads last night.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Three bandits held up the jewelry store of Henry Stearn in West Madison street shortly after 9 o'clock this morning and, according to a report to the police, escaped with $50,000 in gems.

SUICIDE LEAVES NOTE BLAMING HIS WIFE

Barney Fagan, Well-Known Worcester Man, Drinks Poison

Worcester, Nov. 21.—"Don't blame me for what I have done. If you blame anyone, blame my wife."

This was the parting message left by Barney Fagan, former well-known restaurant proprietor of this city, who committed suicide today by drinking poison while standing in front of a Front street drug store.

Fagan had just purchased the poison in the drug store and drank it as soon as he reached the street. He dropped, writhing in agony. He was rushed to his home in a taxicab and died shortly after arriving.

Fagan, who is married and has one child, has been separated from his wife for about two years. She is believed to be in Boston, and has the child with her.

Before taking the poison Fagan wrote the note blaming his wife for his act but gave no details. Friends of the family say he had been brooding over family troubles for some time past.

GIRL'S CRIES FOR MOTHER PUZZLE TO POLICE

Wakefield Woods Searched for Key to Mystery of Calls Heard in Night

A girl's voice crying "Mother" in the depths of the Wakefield woods just before dawn; a white shape flitting across the hills; the cry again, in a fainter voice, and then silence.

That is the mysterious combination on which the police of Wakefield and Saugus are today trying to find the key.

Unless the mystery back of the shadowy form and the cries in the night is soon cleared up, Wakefield may be dragged and the woods for several miles in all directions will be beaten.

Shortly before daybreak the residents of the little cottage colony near Castle Rock in the Wakefield woods here, were roused from slumber by an agonized cry of "Mother!"

A half dozen more adventurous got up and looked out, and from these few the police learned that a woman was seen rushing along a hill into the woods.

Although the cry was repeated several times, nobody investigated. The Wakefield police were called and today made a futile search.

Wakeasw Lake is back of Castle Rock, in the direction from which the last feeble cry came.

Police investigating the case were inclined to believe that the cry was that of a deranged woman, and that she might have committed suicide. Some of the residents of the Castle Rock section, however, believed that a tragedy darker still might lie behind the cries.

THREE TELL COURT THEY ARE BANKRUPT

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed today in the Federal Court by Brenda Manufacturing company, bedwater bottlers, of No. 44 Tainter street, Medford. The liabilities are $11,517, and the assets are declared uncertain.

A voluntary petition was filed by Thomas A. Elston, a building-wrecker, of No. 432 Norfolk street, Dorchester, who gave his liabilities as $5,423.37, and his assets as $19.31. A voluntary petition was also filed by John F. Elston, another building-wrecker, of No. 274 Walnut avenue, Roxbury, with liabilities of $8,236.27 and assets of $30.

A Smooth, White Skin That Defies Weather

During the coming months of biting winds and bleak cold, you who would keep your skins smooth, white and velvety, should turn your attention to mercolized wax. Nothing else will so effectively prevent or remove a chapped, roughened or discolored surface. By gradually absorbing the weather-beaten cuticle, the complexion is kept in perfect condition, and even the beauty of expression appears more pronounced. If your skin be coarse, blotchy, pimply, freckled, sallow or over-red, why not shed it? One ounce of ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any druggist's, will completely transform the most unsightly complexion in less than a fortnight, for the wax mingling, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

If weather, age or poor health has marred your face with wrinkles, here's good news. You can quickly remove every line by using a harmless, refreshing face lotion prepared by dissolving one ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. The firmer, smoother skin, the more youthful appearance, even after one application, will astonish you.—Advertisement.

XMAS FANTASY AT BASKET FUND BALL

Pupils of Amelia Burnham to Appear in Pretty Affair at Copley-Plaza

they stepped from cars in the Cambridge subway stations, and as they poured into all arteries leading to the massive amphitheaters where the old time rivals battled for glory. Every contributor was rewarded with a smile in exchange for his gift. Although Yuletide is but six weeks away, the Christmas spirit prevailed everywhere among the people flocking from all parts of the country to the great football classic.

The coins and bills dropped into the sealed boxes held by the young women and men will be transformed into substantial dinners for thousands of hungry children Christmas Day.

Even when the young women obtained occasional grouchy answers in reply to their "some help for the kiddies," they returned a smile.

The novel experience of collecting funds from such a vast concourse of people was thoroughly enjoyed by the young women, all of whom said it was one of the most interesting experiences they had ever undergone. Although extremely tired from their contact with the vast throng that surged by, they were well satisfied, knowing that their efforts will mean that hundreds of families will be fed that would otherwise be without substantial dinners on Christmas.

SONG TRUCK HELPS.

A "song truck" containing vocalists and collectors also aided in the drive at Cambridge. It was in charge of Mrs. O. D. Williams of Quincy, who is aiding the fund in many different ways. The truck was donated free of charge by George Green, member of the Grow Tire Co., of No. 323 Columbus avenue. He also furnished another truck to transport the girls to and from the vicinity of the Stadium.

Upon the truck were a group of male singers from the Leo Feist Publishing Co. All of them were "live wires." They were Harry Harris, John Keefe, Joe Salomon and Arthur Brown.

The piano used for the occasion was contributed by J. R. Fales of the Starr Piano Co. of No. 221 Columbus avenue. Mr. Fales also loaned a magnovox, which amplified the voices of the singers. In addition he supplied several up-to-date phonograph records.

Among those who assisted Mrs. Williams on the song truck were: Miss Ruth Goodman, South Boston; Mrs. Doris Black, Beacon Hill; Mrs. William Amsbiry, Dorchester; Mrs. J. Pescaglia, Somerville; Mrs. Arthur Humphrey, Framingham; Mrs. E. M. Bryant and Mrs. L. P. Collins, Allston; Miss Catherine Curry, Roxbury; Miss Marion Marshall, Somerville; Miss Ruth Fogerty, Somerville; Miss Anna Gilbert, Chelsea; Miss Gertrude Hendren, Dedham; Miss Frieda Jacobson, Everett; Miss Sadie Sacher, Chelsea; Miss Donna Fisher, Back Bay; Miss Jeannette Sprague, Franklin Square House; Miss Katie Strom, Chelsea; Miss Ethel Murphy, Somerville; Miss Alice Hendren, Dedham; Miss E. C. Painting, Allston; Miss Dorothea Buciuliuo, Sherborn; Miss Grace O'Keefe, Dorchester; Miss Hazel Ferguson, Back Bay; Miss Gladys Finn, Back Bay; Miss Edna Warner, Haverhill, and Messrs. Irving Morgan and George Kahn of Dorchester and T. H. McKiernan, Cambridge.

Several of these girls are pupils at Burdett Business College, Curry School of Expression and Mabel G. Hall Dancing School. The girls from these schools became interested in the matter through the management of their respective places of instruction.

SENDS CHECK FOR $100.

A check for $100 was forwarded to the Fund by George H. White, one of Boston's wealthiest business men. In a note accompanying the contribution he wrote, "I am glad to be in enclosing my check for $100."

Another troop of Girl Scouts has contributed $5 to the Fund. Miss Edith Laxton, in sending the contribution, wrote:

"The Girl Scouts, Troop 4, of Roxbury, voted at their last meeting, Wednesday, November 17, 1921, to give to the American Basket Fund the sum of $5, which I, as treasurer of the troop, am sending with great pleasure.

"We all trust that this sum, for the food it will buy, will give great pleasure to some needy family."

One of the features of the big charity ball and entertainment in Copley-Plaza Hotel, Monday evening, December 19, under the auspices of the Amelia Burnham Studio of Dancing, No. 240 Huntington avenue, will be a Christmas fantasy, entitled "The Awakening of Christmas."

3 AUTO BANDITS HOLD UP MAN IN SOMERVILLE

David C. Ames Is Victim of Daring Gunmen on Lonely Street

David C. Ames of No. 127 Walnut street, Somerville, was nearing his home early today when an automobile containing three men flashed by him and drew up to the curb. Two of the men jumped out and, thrusting revolvers into his face, commanded him to throw up his hands.

The spot was about midway between street lights, and very dark. Ames could see only that the hold-up men appeared to be young and were wearing raincoats and caps. He obeyed the order without a second's delay.

While he stood there with the rain trickling down his neck and wrists, one of the men went through his pockets, taking between $20 and $30, a gold watch and chain and a pocket knife.

Then, still keeping him covered with the revolvers, the pair backed away to the machine, leaped in and sped away.

Ames ran under a street light, where he caught the number

JAPAN STILLS HOLDS CENTRE OF CONFERENCE LIMELIGHT

By NORMAN HAPGOOD

Staff Correspondent Boston American

Washington, Nov. 21.—That Japan is the final question mark of this conference was even clearer on a quiet Sunday than it is in the confusion of a crowded working day. This day was a pause, with church going and trips to the nearby country, but the hush is heavy with surmise about the intentions of the inscrutable Nipponese.

No matter if today does belong to France that is merely a staged demonstration. The brilliant Premier will make an adroit and touching speech. He will tell us again that as nobody else will guarantee safety to France, France herself must seek security in her army and her struggle-hold on Germany.

No matter if Foch, the conqueror, speaks his careful impromptu which is to be compelled, after Briand has finished, by cheers from the sweat-ready Congressmen and Senators in the gallery.

SPEECH INCONSEQUENTIAL.

No matter if the rumor proves true that Briand will have something to say about her army. To be sure, such a move would be outside the main purpose of the conference, but no more outside than the leading act of Monsieur Briand.

Nor will it make any difference if, as is expected, Senator Schanner rises in his place to declare Italy's readiness to reduce her land forces even farther, in agreement with other powers. If he follows this plan, he will take a sympathetic attitude toward the fears of France, but he will ask that, for Italy's part, though her army is only 200,000 strong, less than before the war, costing only $52,000,000, she is ready for joint action downward.

Premier Briand yesterday personally communicated to Secretary of State Hughes, Arthur Balfour and Senator Schanner the substance of his address.

TO POSTPONE ARMY DECISION.

Senator Schanner called at M. Briand's headquarters in the morning, and in the afternoon the French Prime Minister visited Mr. Balfour and Secretary Hughes.

In addition to outlining what he plans to say in stating France's case today, Premier Briand inquired as to the opinions of the American, British and Italian delegates-in-chief as to what the procedure should be after he speaks. It was understood last night that as a result of the conference this general program was agreed upon:

After Premier Briand's explanation of France's contention that she cannot jeopardize her national security by reducing her land forces below the present strength of 520,000 unless there should be given her a practical guarantee of safety, it will be determined not to undertake any limitation of land armaments at the present conference.

JAPAN IN LIMELIGHT.

Probably Mr. Balfour, it was understood today, will state that France has substantiated her claim to a special case and, therefore, the time is not propitious for other nations to insist upon reductions in her army. The guarantee phase of the question will not be considered.

None of these things could take first place away from Japan today. The only foreseeable event that could stand up to interest against the Japanese puzzle would be another bomb from Mr. Hughes. Such a bomb is faintly rumored, now and then, as due today, but the rumors apparently are due to shell shock, the shell shock that has existed for just eight days.

Since the big bomb of November 12 nobody's nerves are quite normal. And the severity with which the American attitude has been explained since—that the ratio of capital ships remains as laid down or we enter the armament race—has not taken away the nervous anticipation of more shells.

NIPPON WILL SHOW HAND.

Today, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, is when serious dealings with Japan begin again. That is when the Far Eastern committee meets to see what is to follow up the generous and vague sentiments emitted Saturday. Not long can the question be avoided of what lay behind these altruistic phrases, which, as Mr. Balfour amiably pointed out, nobody has contested for a long, long time.

On the armament question, Japan has raised the only serious obstacle, but nobody expects her in the end to hold out against a program on which the United States and Great Britain unite.

Where she does have the power to throw in a monkey wrench that can stop the works is in the enterprise of agreeing to some kind of action that will keep China herself from being the mere prey and toy of countries which she looks upon as less civilized than herself.

YAMAGATA HOLDS KEY.

I am supposed to interject an editorial opinion into these news stories only semi-occasionally, but I pause here to observe that in this opinion of China that at bottom she is fully as civilized as those who have despoiled her I heartily concur.

The final decision of Japan rests with one man. That man is not Admiral Baron Kato. It is not Marquis Shidehara. It is not any member of the Japanese delegation. It is not any leader in the Japanese parliament. Nor is it the Mikado.

It is the old gentleman of eighty-four known as Prince Yamagata. When the delegation here knows what this old gentleman thinks, it will know what it has to do.

That is the difference between the Chinese delegation and the Japanese. The Chinese delegation is more authoritative than the government at Pekin. The Japanese delegation must guided by the cable.

IS REAL RULER.

Prince Yamagata is in practice the Regent of Japan. The Mikado has become little more than a shell of authority. Parliament has gained power in many departments, but none whatever where army, navy and foreign policy are concerned.

The prince is the only remaining elder statesman except Marquis Matsukata, who is senile and no longer counts. The eighty-four-year-old dictator is in lusty health, but when he dies, a system will die with him. There is no one to take his place, no one to carry on the tradition of absolute obedience to the state as distinguished from and above the people.

Yamagata rules, but new elements stir under his feet. Ask somebody who really knows the East what is the most dramatic incident since the fall of eight years ago and he will make answer you would never guess. He will not select the Chinese ten points or Mr. Balfour's speech, or Baron Kato's little run-in with the American program.

JAP NEWS WRITERS IN BOX.

He will select an episode that in our newspapers served only for a few lines of passing comedy. Of the Americans most saturated with knowledge of Japan not one believed in advance that it could happen, nor that a group of some twenty Japanese newspaper men could call on Admiral Baron Kato to remonstrate against the behavior of Japan and not lose their official heads on the instant. But they did call and they did remonstrate.

In Japan they could not have called on him at all. There they are so far removed from the great ones that it would not enter into the head of one of them to send in his decorative visiting card to one so august as the Admiral Baron.

It was only the wise ones are wondering what will be the outcome of the unprecedented act. Today heard an exceptionally well informed specialist in Japanese matters say he believed at least half of Japan would lose their jobs. Others wonder if things are moving faster than we think in old Japan.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

If Japan stands as a clear first in underlying interest the second place should go to the rumor that plans for an economic conference are already being laid. The rumor may be somewhat ahead of the actual formal facts, but there is no doubt that economic and financial matters are showing their troublesome heads with every passing hour, and that the interest in having such a conference is strong.

My own judgment is that it will not be called until the smoke from this conference has died down. Two things will probably prevent either such a conference soon after this one or the alternative of interlocking economic and financial problems into this conference.

One is the fear of complicating matters so that the two main purposes will not be accomplished. The other is the fear of alarming that element in American opinion that does not like the suggestion of looking into the whole question of what part war debts are playing in the present industrial turmoil.

FACE MOVIES TODAY.

Arrangements were completed today for the closing of the work of the conference. There will be a three-minute prelude to today's open session to enable a movie record to be made in the Continental Hall.

Five leading film corporations will mass their cameras in the floor of the hall, the light being strengthened by two sunlight arcs placed in the ceiling.

SALES TAX TRIP FOR CONGRESS DRAWS MANY

More Representatives Urged to Accept Chance Offered by Hearst Newspapers

By Universal Service.

Washington, Nov. 21.—With more than seventy acceptances already in hand of the invitation of the Boston American and the other Hearst newspapers to members of Congress to visit Canada for the purpose of studying the operation of the sales tax, an intensive campaign will be conducted this week to persuade members of Congress who are opposed to the sales tax to accompany the delegation.

The delegation will leave Washington next Sunday, November 27, and will spend two days in Montreal, two days in Ottawa and return to Washington on December 3.

The date of departure is now a practical certainty, inasmuch as it is said to have been agreed by the leaders to adjourn Congress, November 23.

WOULD MAKE CONVERTS.

On the letters received by Representative Lester D. Volk, chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, the question has been asked whether or not those Senators and Representatives who are opposed to the sales tax may accompany the delegation.

Several Congressmen have written saying that, while a superficial investigation of the sales tax has inclined them to oppose its application in the United States, they would welcome an opportunity to give the question their further study.

WAKEFIELD CHILD IS BITTEN BY STRAY DOG

A maddened stray dog created a panic in the Wakefield avenue section of Wakefield today, running wild through the street and biting three-year-old John Corlindia about the head and shoulders after knocking the child down and mauling him with its paws. The animal was shot by Patrolman W. B. Young after an exciting chase. Young then had the dog buried, although it is expected the animal will have to be dug up to discover whether rabies existed.

MRS. GARDNER'S ART EXHIBITION OPENS

Boston art critics flocked today to the Fenway Art Museum of Mrs. John L. Gardner, where three famous paintings are for the first time on exhibition. The paintings are "La Gitana," a portrait of a Spanish lady, by Louis Kronberg; a portrait, "Head of the Girl," by Arnold Slade, and a Madonna by Giovanni Bellini, from the Simmeringen Collection. The exhibition will continue tomorrow and Wednesday.

One Killed, Another Wounded in New Belfast Riot

Belfast, Nov. 21 (By the Associated Press).—One man was killed and another was wounded in a renewal this forenoon of the rioting which broke out in the Seaford District at East Belfast Sunday, when rival factions clashed.

Four persons were sent to hospitals and numerous others were slightly injured in yesterday's disturbance.

Today's recurrence of the trouble was met promptly by the authorities, and the situation was speedily brought under control.

GIRL OF 3 PLAYS WITH MATCHES, LOSES LIFE

Mother, On Errand, Returns as Police Are Taking Child to Hospital

"Playing with matches" today claimed another victim in the death at the Haymarket Relief Hospital of three-year-old Mary Calvet of No. 249 Princeton street, East Boston.

Mary was burned about the face, hands and body when she thought it would be "great fun" to play with the matches.

Her mother had warned her of the danger, but the childish brain did not grasp the significance. After the mother went on an errand Mary succeeded in reaching the match box on the shelf above the stove.

She lighted one, the whole box burst in flame, spread to Mary's clothes, and when the mother returned home ten minutes later the police were preparing to send the child to the hospital.

PETERS TO TRY AGAIN TO SELL CITY'S LAND

Would Dispose of Site Curley Bought for $135,000 at Not Less Than $160,000

Mayor Peters today sent to the City Council another message with an order requesting authority to sell at auction the property at the corner of Arch street and Hawley place, purchased during the regime of former Mayor Curley as a site for the erection of a new police station.

In his message today the Mayor stated that the property was not to be sold for less than the assessed value of $148,000.

He pointed out that, as a new site has been secured at the corner of Milk and Bourn streets, the property bought during the Curley regime is not needed and the money realized from its sale should be used in construction work. This same order has been sent to the council by the Mayor four or five different times, but each time has been defeated in the council. The property cost the city $135,000.

Lower Milk Bills
And Better Milk—the Finest in America

Van Camp's Milk brings lower milk bills.

It saves the waste of guessing on your milk wants in advance.

Here the cow is in the pantry. Small cans and large cans are at your call. Open what you need.

No need to guess the day's wants in advance. There is never a shortage, never a waste.

Double-Rich Milk

Van Camp's is whole milk from high-bred cows, with over half of the water evaporated.

It is more than twice as rich in butter fat and solids as the milk when it comes from the cow. Nothing is subtracted save the water.

It is as thick as thick cream. You can even dilute it for coffee or ice cream. Dilute it one-half and you have a very rich milk. Dilute it still further for cooking.

Nothing Changed

We take this rich milk, fresh from the cow, and place it in a vacuum. There, by low heat, we evaporate most of the water, and that's all.

After sealing the milk in tin cans it is sterilized. That is the only change from fresh milk, and that is essential. Safety requires a germ-free milk—a sterilized milk—whether you get it in bottles or cans.

For coffee or cereals Van Camp's is like cream. For cooking, when greatly diluted, it is still rich in butter fat.

A Guarded Milk

Van Camp's Milk comes from sanitary dairies.

We have many model condenseries, in the heart of great dairying districts. The milk is evaporated right after milking.

The Van Camp experts have spent twenty years to produce the finest milk in America. You will know that it is when you taste it.

Whatever milk you are using—bottled or evaporated—compare Van Camp's Milk with it. Here is the very utmost in rich hygienic milk.

Workers in Drive Hopeful of Raising Entire Fund Before Week Closes

Entering upon the last few days of their drive for a fund of $200,000, with well over three-fourths of that amount collected or pledged, Salvation Army campaign workers today expressed confidence that the entire sum would be raised before the end of the week.

Chairman Johnson of the Maintenance Committee declared that a little over $160,000 is already on hand. He said that the work thus far done on the campaign has made the community more responsive towards the army's appeal than it was a week ago, and that the machinery of the organization is now working better than ever before.

In a number of the Episcopal churches the congregations were urged to subscribe to the Salvation Army fund and the many humanitarian activities of the organization were enumerated—the work for unfortunate girls in the Maternity Home on West Newton street and the Day Nursery in the West End being specially stressed.

Director Bard has had assurances from the chairmen of committees that most of them will be present at the final big noonday meeting on Wednesday. There will be some prominent speakers at this meeting. He said that a great many subscriptions had been coming into headquarters, No. 166 Devonshire street, which would not be totaled until today. The report from the treasurer, Allan Forbes, of the State Street Trust, will also be ready today.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Women Voters' Harvest Festival at the Copley-Plaza Hotel

By BETTY ALDEN

For all those who wish to procure the choicest of delicacies as well as original decorations for Thanksgiving table, the Copley-Plaza is the place and all day today, tomorrow and Wednesday is the time. For the Massachusetts League of Women Voters today opens its annual harvest festival and Thanksgiving market in the large ballroom of the Copley-Plaza.

Mrs. Franklin Hobbs of Beacon street and Marion, Mass., has charge of the decorating of the eight booths, or "specialty shops," and I hear that this capable matron is sparing no effort to make the booths the last word in attractiveness and originality. Mrs. Hobbs, by the way, returned with her family from a trip abroad somewhat over a month ago, just in time for her daughter, Miss Rebekah Hobbs, to act as bridesmaid at the wedding of Katherine Williams Parker and Tapman Eustis Francis who were married in the Unitarian Church in Jamaica Plain, on October 8, the same day on which Isabel Goodwin became the bride of Robert McAllister Lloyd, Jr., of New York, in Emmanuel Church. Mrs. Hobbs, who is to pattern the Thanksgiving market in the Copley-Plaza's ballroom after the interior of an old French market place, is naturally well-suited to her task after her extensive travels in France this Summer, and without a doubt will the reproduction of the French market place be an authentic one. The market itself is in charge of Mrs. Horace Morison of Boston and "Terrace Hill Farm" Peterborough, N. H.

The bazaar is in charge of the ways and means committee of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, of which Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman of Brookline is the chairman; Mrs. George W. Perkins, secretary, and Miss Fanny C. Osgood, treasurer. Other active members of this group are: Mrs. George R. Fearing, who is president of the whole organization; Mrs. Franklin Hobbs, Mrs. William H. Baltzell, Mrs. Walter Gilman Page, Mrs. T. Mott Shaw, Miss Carolina Amory, Mrs. Francis Bird, Miss Marion Child, Mrs. Thorndike Howe, Mrs. Arthur W. Meers, Mrs. Francis Peabody Magoun, Mrs. Norman McLeod, Mrs. Hollis Shaw, Miss Martha Silsbee and Mrs. Jesse F. Lyman.

Mrs. Pitman, who always has a specialty shop for this occasion, has this year brought home from Paris a quantity of Britany china in various attractive shapes, inexpensive but appropriate for country houses and the breakfast table.

Mrs. George R. Knowlton of West Upton, who gave so much fun last year with her "Humpty-Dumpty," will again afford the patrons of the bazaar much amusement by her clever sayings from the top of the "wall." There will also be a chimney corner, over which Mrs. Lyman and matrons from Ashby will preside, as well as a grandmother's attic and a host of new attractions.

This year the committee in charge has been especially fortunate, having received many beautiful and substantial gifts. Among the larger donations are two automobiles, which will be exhibited and sold, one by Mrs. F. F. Rhodes for the Brookline section and the other by Mrs. Thorndike Howe. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has written a cordial letter to Mrs. Walter M. Pratt, chairman of the Boston section, in which he says: "I take great pleasure in sending you the inclosed check as a subscription to the expenses of the bazaar to be held under the auspices of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, and with best wishes for your success."

Checks have also been received from Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller and Mrs. Channing Cox. The "good wishes" letter sent by Florence Kling Harding, the first lady of the land, will be placed with the autographs which are to be exhibited and sold by Miss Eva Channing.

The festival will close with a large ball on Wednesday evening. Mrs. George R. Fearing and Mrs. Franklin Hobbs will be the hostess of this event, at which there will be dancing from 10 o'clock until 4 o'clock, with Lowe's orchestra and the Marimba Band furnishing the music.

Recently there seems to have been no end of activities among prominent society women in aid of various women's colleges. One of the most notable of these affairs is the author's reading this afternoon for which Mrs. Everett Morse is opening her home at No. 115 Commonwealth avenue. The reading is in aid of the Radcliffe College Endowment Fund.

Among the literary stars who are to read from their published works are: Mrs. Lucy Anderson, Eleanor Hallowell Abbott, Josephine Preston Peabody, Dorothy Sands, Professor Kirsopp Lake and Dennis A. McCarthy. Judge Frederick Cabot is to introduce the authors.

The women, prominent in society circles, who have aided in the sale of tickets, are Mrs. Guy Cunningham, Mrs. Henry A. Morse, Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske, Miss Phyllis Robbins, Miss Susan Cabot Lyman and Miss Ruth M. Gordon.

Plans for the recital to be given by Rachmaninoff on Wednesday, December 7, in Symphony Hall, also in aid of the Radcliffe College Endowment Fund, are now well under way, and the affair is being sponsored by matrons and young women well known among the "four hundred" contingent.

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis have not closed their Summer at Nahant, but will keep it open until January, when Mrs. Curtis will go to Washington. Their house at No. 447 Beacon street has been let to John Frye.

Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice has added to her Newport land holdings by purchasing from T. A. Havemeyer and others a large plot of land on the western side of Coggeshall avenue in Newport, R. I. At present Mrs. Rice is bound for Egypt, where, with Dr. Rice, she will spend the Winter.

Miss Janet Sabine, the debutante daughter of Mrs. Wallace Sabine of Marlboro street, was in Chestnut Hill, Pa., where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton of Bethlehem Pike, over the week-end. Later Miss Sabine attended the ball given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart Wurts and Mr. and Mrs. James Starr at the Hotel Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, in honor of Miss Sarah Logan Starr. More than 800 guests, including many out-of-town visitors, attended the ball, which formally opened the social season in the Quaker City.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno and Miss Miriam Fenno of Commonwealth avenue have arrived in New York after a trip abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meeker and Miss Elizabeth Meeker of New York, who were at the Hale House ball, on their return home were accompanied by Miss Lorna Underwood, who will be their house guest over Thanksgiving.

MISS ANDREA ADIE.

These Fall days many members of the smart set are seen out for a ride. Miss Andrea Adie, of Chestnut Hill, who is one of the most enthusiastic sportswomen among Boston's society girls, is soon to sail for abroad with her mother, Mrs. Andrew Adie

"I Count Only Sunny Hours"

So boasts many a sun-dial. Like many people, they are only fair-weather friends. But the timekeepers and friends that are worth while are those which are to be depended upon twenty-four hours of every day.

That is the kind of timekeepers you will find in our clock department. Clocks which mark the passing hours faithfully and accurately. We can offer you a variety of selection in both style and price, but only one quality—the best.

You may secure a stately grandfather's clock for the hall or dining-room, a drawing-room clock whose grace does not interfere with its usefulness, a boudoir clock wonderfully enameled, or a traveling-clock in a leather case.

A clock makes an attractive Christmas gift. In every home there is at least one room which has not been fitted with a much needed timekeeper. We suggest that you make your selection as far ahead of the last-minute Christmas rush as possible.

SMALL RESPONSE TO RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Organization Has but Three Days Left to Raise $175,000

With less than $25,000 thus far received toward the $200,000 needed for its year's work in Boston, the Roll Call of the American Red Cross has achieved hardly more than a calamity. Ending Thanksgiving, it has but three days before it. And the campaign for popular support will positively end Wednesday night.

The Red Cross is absolutely dependent upon popular subscription. It is a membership organization. It has no endowment and so far as Boston is concerned, no reserve. It is for Boston people to sustain the work here and a failure on their part means the suspension of the service that the Red Cross give.

The meagre results thus far are not only disappointing but surprising, because of the high endorsement given the peace time work based on the showing of the present year.

The Boston chapter has been given the endorsement in emphatic terms of Cardinal O'Connell, Bishop Lawrence, Rabbi Levi and Mayor Peters.

The hope is still active among the tried friends of the Red Cross that the remaining days of the Roll Call will bring such a response as will prevent the disaster of an almost complete suspension of the local activities which the chapter has thus far maintained.

Back Bay Post Ball.

The third annual ball of the Back Bay Post, American Legion, will be held tomorrow evening in Paul Revere Hall. General and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Governor Cox, Mayor Peters and Vice-Commander-Elect Raymond Brackett are among the invited guests.

PARIS sends further evidence of her affection for the gay sleeve in two flocks sketched above. At the left, black broadcloth, itself so smart, is the background for sleeves showing the peasant influence in their form and variety of color—rose, tan, blue and green mingling in a flowered pattern. This simple one-toned chemise type of frock lends itself particularly well to the use of embroidery as a trimming.

NICHOLS QUITS POST AS TECH PRESIDENT

Compelled by Ill Health to Resign; Dr. Elihu Thomson Named Temporary Head

Dr. Ernest Fox Nichols, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has resigned his office because of ill health and his resignation has been accepted by the executive committee of the corporation.

He has been given leave of absence until January 3, 1922, at which time the next meeting of the corporation will be held and the action of the executive committee will be confirmed.

Although Dr. Nichols was inaugurated president of the Institute on June 5, 1921, he has never assumed office, for soon after the inauguration ceremonies he was stricken with an illness which made it impossible for him to take up his duties.

Because of this illness and its consequences his physicians insisted that he relinquish his post and after much discussion and many regrets the executive committee of the corporation accepted the resignation on the grounds that there seemed to be no alternative.

Dr. Elihu Thomson of Swampscott, chief consulting engineer of the General Electric Company, has again been appointed acting president, a post which he filled after the death of Dr. Richard C. Maclaurin in January, 1920, and will continue until a successor to President Nichols is named.

WOMEN VOTERS OPEN ANNUAL BAZAAR

Harvest and Thanksgiving Market at Copley-Plaza Is Best Ever

"Bigger and better than ever" is the unanimous comment of visitors at the Harvest and Thanksgiving Market, which opened today at the Copley Plaza and continues through Wednesday under the auspices of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters.

Members of eighty-five leagues have been cooperating to make the bazaar a success, and fifteen of them have tables in the festival. Boston and Brookline have the largest representations, with several booths each.

Practical artistics has been the slogan this year, and the goods on sale are largely of that nature. The unique idea of a nursery in a hotel ballroom belongs to Mrs. Herbert Macintosh, who prepared and is in charge of the old French nursery, which faithfully imitates the French market shops. She has imported many French articles.

Chinaware imported from Brittany is stored at another booth, with Mrs. Dennison P. Pitman in charge. Mrs. George H. Fearing, president of the league, and Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs are in charge of the hat and lingerie store. Mrs. Josiah P. Lyman has the chimney corner; Miss Martha Sillaber has the food shop and Mrs. Joseph Lancaster the bundle table.

Two automobiles are also to be disposed of during the bazaar.

Miss Eva Chamblin has an exhibition and sale of autographs of eminent persons, including the signature of President Harding on several views of the White House.

Mrs. Fearing and Mrs. Hobbs are in charge of the dance to be given Wednesday night.

PELLETIER FAVORS FIVE-CENT 'L' FARES

A five-cent fare on the Boston Elevated, even if that means a deficit, was advocated by District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, speaking at several rallies held in the interest of his mayoralty campaign.

"Our transit system is just as much a matter of public benefit as our system of sewers, lighting and the streets themselves. The entire burden should not be borne alone by those who use the cars if it be proved that a five-cent fare is insufficient but by the property interests generally to make up the deficit."

Inclusion of suburbs in a greater corporate Boston was also urged by the candidate.

BOLAND SAYS ARMS PARLEY AIDED ERIN

Irish Envoy at Arena Credits Conference With Big Influence on Settlement

A final settlement of the Irish peace negotiations can only come by England recognizing the right of the Irish people to decide for themselves the form of government under which they shall live, Harry J. Boland, envoy of the Republic of Ireland, told an audience in the Boston Arena last night. The meeting was a demonstration in honor of Boland, who recently returned from a visit to his home land.

"These are anxious days," he said. "Ireland is within sight of the goal and the dream of centuries is about to be realized. Whatever the future may have in store for Ireland, we in this generation, at any rate, have carried our cause to within sight of the promised land."

The calling of the disarmament conference by President Harding has had a very favorable influence on Irish independence, according to Boland.

"I am convinced," he told the Arena gathering, "that the decision of the American government to summon this conference at Washington is in a large measure responsible for the present happy position in Ireland.

"Ireland lies, the last outpost of Europe. It is encircled with mountains whose precipitous cliffs stand as bulwarks. With a sufficient number of submarines and aircraft for her protection against aggression, the Irish people would be saved the burden of taxation necessary to keep up a huge fleet. A free and independent Ireland would be the surest safeguard for the peace of the world and for the freedom of the seas. If England and Ireland can compose their differences, one of the great causes of unrest will have been removed from the world.

"What the result of the present negotiations may be I cannot say. Ireland has profited from the lessons of the past and has determined that England will not win by diplomatic or political intrigue a victory which all the might of her armies was unable to accomplish."

A tremendous ovation was given Boland upon his arrival at the South Station. He was accompanied by Frank P. Walsh, who also spoke at the Arena.

Led by the Brian Boru Irish War Pipers of Worcester, and a delegation of former service men, the Boland party was escorted to the Copley-Plaza, where the Irish envoy will stay during his Boston visit.

This Gift Test

Brings a revelation—make it now

This offers you a delightful ten-day test—and free. It is a test which has taught millions a new method of teeth cleaning.

The glistening teeth you see everywhere now are due in large part to this method.

It shows the way to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. And all in your home, as long as they live, may be benefited by it.

The film on teeth

One purpose is to fight the film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. That is what dims teeth and destroys them. Most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Film clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. The tooth brush used in old ways leaves much of it intact. So most folks find that teeth brushed daily still discolor and decay. In fact, tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

Makes teeth dingy

It is the film-coats that become discolored, not the teeth. Most teeth are clouded by it, more or less. Film is the basis of tartar.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. It breeds millions of germs, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So the enemies of teeth and their beauty are largely developed in film.

Two film combatants

Dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists, nearly all the world over, are urging their daily use.

These methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent—a tooth paste which meets every modern requirement. So every application effectively fights film. It combats this tooth-destroyer as nothing else has done.

Also starch and acids

Gummy starch deposits also cling to teeth. In fermenting they form acids—the acids which cause decay. Brushing rarely removes them all.

Nature puts a starch digestant in the saliva, to digest those starch deposits. It puts alkalis there to neutralize the acids. But they need stimulation.

Pepsodent multiplies that starch digestant. It multiplies the alkalis. Thus it increases markedly these natural protective agents.

Five Things Happen With Every Application

1—Film removal.
2—High polish.
3—Increased salivary flow.
4—Multiplied starch digestant in the saliva.
5—Multiplied alkalinity, to neutralize all acids.

Modern dental science wants the tooth paste to bring all these results. Without them teeth are much less clean and safe. Pepsodent brings all of them, and in a pleasant way.

For beauty's sake

Everybody should use Pepsodent, if only for beauty's sake. Film-coated teeth mar the beauty of millions. Remove the film and see.

But dental science has far greater objects. Very few people have escaped tooth troubles. Some of these troubles are alarming in extent. That is what has led men to this dentifrice reform.

Send this coupon for the 10-Day Tube. Watch the change in a week. Then judge by clear results. This is most important to you. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

NEED 100 CARS TO CONVEY VETERANS

Owners of Autos Asked to Help Take Wounded Men to Colonial Theatre

Do you own an automobile? If so, will you lend your car to carry wounded soldiers from one of the army hospitals in or around Boston to the Colonial Theatre tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for the benefit performance which is to be given by a committee composed of theatrical managers of Boston and the Community Service?

The committee has sent out through the press today an appeal to all auto owners of the city for 100 cars for transporting the veterans. Owners are requested to send their names by phone to Harold D. Bornstein, No. 9240 Back Bay, or to drop him a letter at No. 664 Commonwealth avenue, advising him how many passengers they can carry.

In all about 350 wounded and sick veterans will be taken to the theatre. The benefit proceeds will be used to bring Christmas cheer to the wounded men. Police protection will be given the cars.

Among the members of the committee in charge of the affair are: Miss Dorothy Forbes, chairman; Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, Mrs. A. T. Forbes, Mrs. Edward D. Brandegee, Governor and Mrs. Channing Cox, Mrs. Andrew J. Peters, Mrs. Charles D. Wells, Mrs. Robert Gould, 2d, Mrs. L. F. Tuttle, jr., Mrs. Allen Forbes, Mrs. Harry Kidder, Mrs. Catherine P. Loring, Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. Frederick S. Whitwell, Mrs. Reginald Gray, Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, Mrs. John Lowell, President and Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell, Mrs. Oliver Ames, jr., Mrs. F. Parkman Blake, Mrs. Theodore P. Burgess, and Mrs. John Appleton Burnham.

HOME OF TOLSTOY IN DANGER OF COLLAPSE

Yasnaya Polyana, Russia, Nov. 21.—The home of the late Count Leo Tolstoy, which is classed by the Soviet government as a National Museum, is in danger of collapse. Although the government is running free weekly pilgrimages to the house, no money has been spent in its unkeep, and the Tolstoy family plans to start a world wide restoration fund of $100,000.

Make Thanksgiving Day Brighter for Disabled Vets

Major Theodore L. Storey, executive officer at Parker Hill Hospital, has agreed to co-operate with the Boston American in brightening Thanksgiving Day for disabled soldiers.

The Public Health Hospitals in Boston and vicinity will have real old-fashioned turkey dinners and entertainment in the afternoon. This is especially for the boys who cannot leave the hospitals. Many, however, would appreciate a day and evening away from the institutions, and the doctors agree the change would do them good.

A phone call for Major Storey, Brookline 7400, will work wonders in bringing Thanksgiving gladness to disabled soldiers.

ROGER CONANT APPEALS FINE FOR STILLS

Refuses to Take the Stand in His Own Defence in Court at Salem

Salem, Nov. 21.—Roger W. Conant, direct descendent of the first settler of Salem, admitted to Chief of Police James L. Cole of Wenham that he had been operating three illicit stills in a cottage near Wenham Pond "in order to get money to support his wife and two young children," declared Chief Cole.

When Conant was arraigned in Salem Court today on a charge of violating the liquor laws, he refused to take the stand in his own defense, but Chief Cole told the court Conant had been without work for some time.

The prisoner was held in $500 bail for Superior Court when he appealed from a fine of $100. Bail was furnished by Samuel Forsyth, one of the first men to be convicted here of operating an illicit still.

Three stills were confiscated by the police in the cottage.

Two of the stills were in operation when Chief Cole and officers arrived. Additional equipment included several gallons of "moonshine," 100 gallons of mash, a large quantity of barley and raisins, several barrels of molasses and a number of jugs and bottles.

Conant's home is at No. 12 Hobart avenue, Beverly. He rented the cottage on the Richard Waters place, one of the show estates of the North Shore, last July and has been seen there almost daily. To friends he explained that he was preparing the cottage for occupancy.

For One Recipe

The Boston American Pays $25.00 Every Week for the Best Recipe sent in by a reader. See this week's First-Prize Winner, on Today's Magazine Page!

We shall be glad to receive your recipe.

Tell us exactly how you prepare your best dish; the one you like best; the one your husband prefers; the one the children talk about.

For the best recipe sent to us each week, the Boston American will give an order for $25 worth of groceries and provisions. For every other recipe which appeals to the judges and for which room for publication is found, the Boston American will pay an honorarium of One Dollar.

Twenty-five dollars in groceries or provisions, remember, for the Best Boston Recipe of the week; One dollar for every other recipe we print.

The Rules of This Cookery Contest Are Few and Simple

1—In sending your recipe either attach a sales slip, not more than one week old, from the establishment of some dealer in foodstuffs—grocery, market, delicatessen—whose advertisement you see in the Boston American during the current week or write the name and address of the store on the same sheet with the recipe, if the dealer does not give sales slips.

2—Write upon one side of the paper only.

3—At the top of the sheet write plainly your name and address.

The winner will receive an order on the store whose sales slip or name and address is attached to the prize recipe for $25 worth of groceries and provisions.

Please give special attention, for a minute, to Rule 1. It does NOT mean that you must buy all or any of the things called for by your recipe from a Boston American advertiser or from Boston American advertisers. You may never have bought a single one of them in these places. Your recent purchase from a Boston American advertiser may be of any foodstuff, in or out of your recipe. It may be for fifty cents or for ten dollars; the amount is not important. The Prize Boston Recipe Contest has a three-fold object. We want (1) for the information and instruction of all our readers, the best recipes we can get from (2) Boston American cooks who (3) trade with Boston American advertisers.

So mothers, sisters, aunts, housekeepers, send us without delay that recipe for which you are famed among friends and kinfolk, but be sure to send along with it a sales slip not more than one week old from some establishment, dealing in foodstuffs, whose advertisement you find in the Boston American during the current week or the name and address of the dealer if he does not give sales slips.

And suit yourself about the kind of recipe you select. It may be that your baked beans are famous. John, your good man, may boast that his wife's baked beans "can't be beat" even in Boston. Perhaps there is something special in the way you prepare them. Tell us about it.

Or, possibly it is your brown bread, or your New England boiled dinner.

Pie! There's a typically New England, typically Boston article. Which is your best pie? How is it done?

Or it may be cake. It may be any of the thousand things New England women—Boston women—make better than any other women anywhere in America.

And by "Boston," of course, we mean "Greater Boston." The sales slip will tell the story. If you reside within trading distance of Boston American advertisers we shall assume—for the purposes of this contest—that you are a Bostonian.

Begin today reading the food advertisements in the Boston American. The current week's sales slip or the name and address of any grocery or provision dealer advertising in the Boston American entitles you to compete.

Entries close every Tuesday evening. Prize-winning announcements in the following week, beginning on Monday with the publication of the week's Best Recipe. Watch the Magazine Page.

Send in YOUR Best Recipe today with sales slip attached or name of dealer.

All entries for the Best Boston Recipe Contest should be addressed to

INTEREST IN BOOK TITLE TEST INCREASES DAILY

HUNDREDS JOIN AS TWELFTH PICTURE IS PRINTED

Another Monday finds us again with hundreds of new participants in the $5,000 Book Title Picture Test and for their benefit we will explain the theory or plan of the competition.

Every day for sixty days the Boston American will print a drawing similar to the one you see here and invite you to say what its title is.

It HAS a title, which was selected before the picture was drawn. It illustrates the name of some book. What book?

TWELFTH DAY OF TEST.

On this page you will see a List of Titles. In that List is the Correct Title of today's picture. This will be true every day throughout the Test. One title in this List fits today's picture better than any other title in the List. That title is the Correct Title.

This is the Twelfth Day of the competition. Nothing is to be sent in before the close of the Test. You then will send in the Picture having selected and written what you think are the right names and the Boston American will pay 219 awards, amounting to $5,000, to those who have sent in the largest numbers of Correct Titles. The prizes:

One First Award	$1,000
One Second Award	750
One Third Award	500
One Fourth Award	400
One Fifth Award	300
One Sixth Award	200
One Seventh Award	150
One Eighth Award	100
One Ninth Award	50
100 Awards of $10 each	1,000
110 Awards of $5 each	550
Total	$5,000

OPEN TO ALL.

The Book Test is open to every reader of the Boston American residing in New England or Canada. There is no age limit, but the Test Editor believes it no more than fair to express his own opinion that the Test is too severe for children.

Nothing counts but Correct Title. It does not matter where you live, what your name is, whether you are man or woman, or how long you have been a reader of the Boston American. You pay no fee of any kind. You do not have to enroll. Write Correct Titles enough and one of the above awards is yours without question. Write MORE Correct Titles than anyone else writes and yours will be the top award of $1,000.

And now the Test Editor has a statement to make which should be seen—and he hopes will be seen—by every contestant.

ARTIST SLIPS UP.

We have said from the beginning that the Test Pictures represent the TITLES of books and ONLY the titles. We have said that they do not refer in any way to the CONTENTS of books, that they have nothing to do with the STORY, that with the help of the daily List of Titles and your own clever brains you COULD find the Correct Titles even though you knew nothing of the books.

This was and IS the plan, but it must be said today that in two pictures already printed Mr. Artist appears to have forgotten it.

Reference is made to Picture No. 3 and Picture No. 8.

Several participants in the Test have written to the Test Editor protesting that, while the two titles were "easy" enough, it is inconceivable that anyone could have spotted them who did not know something of the books.

In each case the point is well taken. These two pictures do not live up to the specifications. We are NOT going to throw them out of the Test and substitute others, but we ARE going to print the titles.

The Correct Title of Picture No. 3 is "ROBINSON CRUSOE."

The Correct Title of Picture No. 8 is "RIP VAN WINKLE."

READ RULES CAREFULLY.

Write the above titles on the two pictures now and forget about them. Mr. Artist's sleepiness has reduced the number of his problems to 58. All remember the guarantee: That the Test Pictures illustrate TITLES, and ONLY titles, and have absolutely nothing to do with stories or contents of the books in question. It is not and will not be necessary to know the books. The pictures illustrate titles, and titles only.

Please read carefully the Rules of the Test. One of the most important at this stage of the proceedings is that nothing is to be sent in before the close of the competition. Do not send the pictures in from day to day. Hold them. Keep them clean.

Bear in mind the necessity of getting the Boston American every day. We do not sell back numbers. The best plan is to place a standing order with the newsdealer. Let him know that you are following the $5,000 Book Test and must have the paper every day. He will be glad to serve you.

You are sure to enjoy the Book Test. You may profit by it.

Five thousand dollars is at stake. MUST BE WON!

MYSTERY IN ATTLEBORO INSPECTOR'S RESIGNATION

Attleboro, Nov. 21.—Mystery surrounds the resignation of George F. Lester as wire inspector, but Mayor Brady gave the first intimation of trouble in the department when he stated in his Chamber of Commerce address that "there is trouble in the wire department which we hope to get straightened out with the insurance underwriters soon." Lester's resignation was reported by Mayor Brady to the municipal council last week, with no explanation other than that after a probe into the office, the action resulted.

KUROKOL NOW HAVING ENORMOUS SALE HERE

Thousands Now Using New Scientific Cold Remedy With Most Astonishing and Gratifying Results.

RESULTS FROM USE ALMOST IMMEDIATE

Druggists Instructed to Refund Money In Every Instance Where Satisfactory Results Are Not Obtained After First Few Doses.

The next time you have a cough or cold go to your nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Kurokol. Have the clerk open it on the spot, take a teaspoonful, repeat the dose in an hour and again the second hour. If you are not surprised and delighted with the results, then go back to your druggist and he will refund your money without question. Kurokol is manufactured by a million-dollar corporation, composed of successful, level-headed business men, and the fact that they are willing to stand back of every bottle sold is convincing proof of their absolute confidence in the preparation.

As recently announced, the Kurokol formula was perfected by Dr. J. W. Smathers, an American Physician and Pharmacist of thirty years' experience.

In referring to his new discovery, Dr. Smathers said: "Ever since I first began the study of medicine I have realized the great need of a more efficient method of treating Colds, Bronchitis, Croup in children, and kindred disorders. The trouble has been that most people invariably treat the symptoms and not the cause. Most people nowadays, when they have a cold, simply take Aspirin. Plain Aspirin never did and never will cure a cold. It relieves the symptoms momentarily and alleviates only. Others take nauseous doses of Quinine and violent purgatives, which often upset the system to such an extent that the treatment is worse than the disorder. Still others use cough remedies and expectorants, which afford only temporary relief.

"My new formula, Kurokol, not only relieves the symptoms, but the cause as well. It is a combination treatment, and acts as an antipyretic, which reduces the fever and relieves the feeling of distress and discomfort; an expectorant, which loosens the phlegm, relieves congestion and stops the cough; a laxative, which opens the bowels, and an antiseptic, which retards germ growth and checks the spread of the infection. Those who have taken Kurokol find it difficult to describe the wonderful feeling of relief and exhilaration they experience. The volatile parts of the solution penetrate deep down into the air passages. The head is unstopped, sneezing, sniffling and coughing usually cease at once, and headache and other distressing symptoms almost invariably disappear with the first few doses. Only one bottle is usually sufficient to break up the most obstinate cold."

This new scientific discovery is rapidly becoming the sensation of the drug trade throughout the United States and Canada, and thousands are now using it with the most astonishing and gratifying results.

You must say BAYER Aspirin

"Bayer" on Genuine Aspirin—say "Bayer"

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. At druggists. sell Bayer Tablets of Aspirin in handy tin boxes of 12, and in bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

BOOK TEST RULES

The Boston American Book Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American residing in New England or Canada. There is no age limit, but the Test Editor believes it no more than fair to express his own opinion that the Test is too severe for children.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by this newspaper to its readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published one each day for sixty consecutive week days, excepting Sundays and Boston holidays. Employees of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of sixty pictures, each representing the title of a well-known book, to be printed, one each day, in the Boston American, the first picture on Monday, November 21, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of TITLES for each picture printed, but no set of TITLES for each picture printed, but no set of TITLES for each picture printed, but no

EUROPE'S MOST DECORATED GIRL COMING TO AMERICAN COLLEGE

PORTIA Goes A-roaming! Miss K. Maricom, leading woman labor leader of Europe (she is only 28), is coming to Washington to plead for world disarmament at international conference. (Int.)

SHIP AHOY! A cute chapeau, direct from Paris, of black felt, trimmed with shaped loops of dark red moire ribbon. It has a sea flavor.

DIZZY! Alfred H. Dow, widely known dare-devil, is shown descending 200 feet above the street in N. Y.

A RISING YOUNG ATHLETE! She rose so far, in fact, that she defeated her French rivals in the international match, Paris. Miss Elizabeth Hatt of England had no difficulty in winning the high jump. She is pictured making the victorious leap. (W. W.)

...PPING QUESTION! Dr. F. X. Sauchelli of N. Y., who has told President Harding how to shake hands "hygienically." (U. & U.)

COL. I. N. LEWIS, inventor and maker of machine gun, has presented President Harding with a petition urging disarmament. He says his factories can make plowshares.

MISS BONNIE McLeary of Texas, only 28, is youngest woman sculptor to gain entrance to National Academy of Design exhibit, N. Y. (Int.)

BEES Used to Sting Then, Too! This novel beehive, found in Germany, was used in the 12th Century. (U. P.)

THEY need these at some of our Boston prizefights. A London housewife has utilized an old "air raid" gas respirator to decorate her home without the offensive odors. (U. P.)

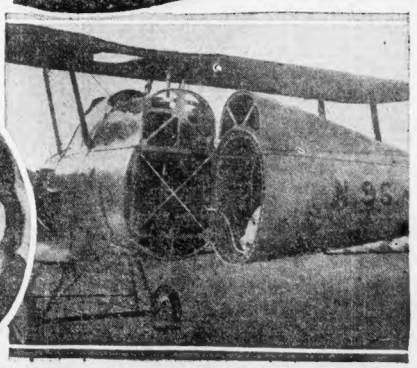
JUST FROM PARIS! Comfy little sweater of brushed red wool—to wrap baby bunting in. (U. & U.)

KUAN YIN! P. C. Larkin, Boston collector, has added this exquisite statue of pure china—a goddess of Buddhism—to his collection.

MARGUERITE MOSLEY-WILLIAMS, most decorated woman in Europe, is coming here to attend college. Ran away from school to drive ambulance in war. Decorated 10 times. (U. & U.)

AUTUMN REVEL! Mollie Rauschel, Florence Breen and Doris Black, pupils of Amelia Burnham, gambolling in the Fenway. (H. & J.)

MISS MARGARET M. MORGAN, elected supervisor (a sort of business manager) of San Francisco, over all male candidates. Will work for more playgrounds. (Int.)



AND JAPAN WANTS TO DISARM! This deadly streak of the air is called the Parnall "panther" and was produced just before the armistice for use on battleships. Japan is buying them by the score. The "hyrdrovane," fixed to the under carriage, keeps up the nose of plane in forced landing. (Int.)

IA KO-BUC, a curious tree growth that many believe was an ancient Egyptian god, now passing his days on the Portola roadside, near San Francisco. Brought from Yukon. (Int.)

THE MARINES HAVE LANDED! And apparently have the situation well in hand. The "devil dogs" are not only guarding Uncle Sam's mail all over the country, but are, in San Francisco at least, guarding the fair users of the mail. "Devil dog" shown on guard in the main postoffice of the West coast city. (Int.)

MOTION PICTURE NEWS AND GOSSIP

W. Ferguson, Veteran Actor, Leaves New York for Term at Hollywood

FRIEDA DAVIS

"You can't teach an old dog new tricks," protested W. J. Ferguson, veteran actor, who was approached with a proposal that he go to Hollywood, Cal., and become a director in the movies. Raoul Walsh explained that Ferguson had been engaged to direct and became a director, regardless of Ferguson's protests. Ferguson, who is 60 years old, has been acting for the past 45 years, and has appeared in more than 1000 productions. He has been on the stage since he was a boy of 15, when he appeared in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Bowery Theatre, New York. He has been in vaudeville, burlesque, musical comedy and dramatic productions. He has been in the movies for the past two years.

SAW LINCOLN SHOT.

"I was a red boy at Ford's Theatre in Washington the night John Wilkes Booth killed Lincoln, and was one of the first persons to enter the President's box after the shooting. I was sitting in the front row of the balcony, and when I heard the shot I jumped up and ran to the box. I saw Booth escape by jumping from the box to the stage, and I followed him as far as the door leading to the alley, but he got away on a horse that was waiting for him."

MARY HAY SIGNS.

Mary Hay, who was Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, has signed a contract with Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to appear in motion pictures. Miss Hay's first picture will be "The Little Whopper."

GILLINGWATER FOR HUGHES FILM

Rupert Hughes is to direct a film version of "Souls for Sale," a story by Gouverneur Morris, with Claire Windsor and Richard Dix in the leading roles. Hughes has also engaged Claude Gillingwater for a part in the picture.

October 9, 1921

1. This Sunday I am going to begin with the men folks, I guess 'em, for any changes. I'm fussy about the masculine collar, and I think a good many! women are. We like our men folk to wear graceful, easy looking collars that have a swagger to them. The other day I saw a man of my acquaintance, who knows dress from A to Z, and I was so entranced by his particular collar that I actually asked him its name, and he actually told me — and that collar's just a peach. You have only to persuade a man to try one to have him agree with me. It's a marvel in more ways than one. For it has the comfort of a starched collar and the appearance of a soft collar and can be washed at home as easily as a handkerchief. It is said not to shrink nor wrinkle, nor yet to wilt. It requires no starching, has no artificial stiffening and no saw edges to hurt either the neck or the shirt. There are several shapes from which to choose, but there is one in particular — the one this well dressed man wore — which is becoming to the average man, and I personally am quite mad about it. The price is fifty cents. Be sure when you call on my phone, or write to my department, to ask for both the name of the make and the name of the particular style of collar to which I refer. It sounds like a wild yarn, but a couple of days ago a man assured me must elaborately that he knew a man who managed with only two of these collars all his summer vacation, so easily and quickly were they laundered and so well did they wear.

B. C. NOW GETS READY FOR HOLY CROSS

Yet, the Boston College line held out against superior weight for three periods of the game. Very few Georgetown players found holes in the B. C. line, and even then after the Southern line chargers were hurled back for losses.

George Dowd who replaced Ellis in the second half of the game, showed that he has the mettle of a second Lyons in him. He plays in the style that Cavanagh wants. He can hit the line hard and then plow through the fatigued teams for a few extra yards. Dowd will probably get into the Holy Cross game for a longer period than he played Saturday.

However it is tradition that these two colleges should wind up their season in a contest to determine which has the better football team. Interest in this game is greater than in any game that either team plays during the season, as both colleges are in the State and have many interested alumni and followers. The games in the past have always been characterized by the bitterest of friendly feeling. Only those who have seen the Maroon and Gold team clash with the Purple can appreciate this paradox.

Holy Cross has been defeated twice in three years. But Georgetown has been beaten twice in three years. Each team is primed to avenge its defeat and a supreme effort is expected when the two elevens meet on Braves Field Saturday.

The B. C. team had but a light workout today in case of the players were sore as a result of the Georgetown game. Cavanagh will make sure the team has plenty of practice on the new plan which will be tried against Holy Cross.

Filene's Men's Shops

From Switzerland, Ireland, France, Italy and from makers in our own country came the silks for this old-fashioned Christmas

NECKTIE PARTY

"Good Values!" you'll say. Here's why—

The chap that assembled these silks from the mills of Europe and America needed money. Our buyer arrived at the famous psychological moment; the result---the silks went into these ties at reductions of from 33 1-3% to 66 2-3% from their previous prices. A remarkable reduction and we pass it along!

Made to Filene standards with long label, bar-tacked bolt ends---in every way worthy to be Christmas gifts.

6000 ties
65c Moire silks, brocaded satins, circled satins, two line changeable silks, twilled effects, genuine Irish poplins, and others.

2100 ties
95c Basket weave silks, satins, brocaded satins, dotted effects and many others.

8300 ties
$1.45 Persians, French satins, Swiss grenadines, twills, basket weaves, heathers and dotted patterns.

Noteworthy
is the fact that despite the new low prices at which these ties are offered, they are not broken lots but complete new merchandise. Every pattern being in six colors.

600 knit grenadine ties $1.85
Knit grenadine ties are the long wearing knit ties that have been so popular and so expensive. These are plain blue, black, brown and myrtle and in blue, black and brown with contrasting dots in white, gold or red.

Charge
customers making purchases now may pay for them in January if they wish.

Be Prepared for Something

WALL ST. GOSSIP

—By MONITOR—

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—It probably would take a confirmed optimist to assume that the rising tendency in the stock market, that has been noted erately but plainly in evidence for about seven weeks, is by way of discounting better days ahead. Investment securities have gained substantially in price, and the general average of stocks has climbed appreciably as well. The recovery has taken place in the face of strong counter-influences, and unquestionably has been regarded by many students of conditions as a minor upward movement of the first phase in a major advance.

THE influence responsible for the improvement is represented primarily by the belief current in several strata, although the revival in certain industries and the expectation formed of the results of the disarmament conference have been additional factors. There is every reason to believe, however, that the two latter elements are of minor importance and that the chief impulse in the rise in securities has been derived from the prospects of cheaper money. The decline in rates and the growing abundance of funds may be the result of business stagnation, but they also will furnish the occasion for higher prices for such securities as have assurance of stable incomes.

ALL likelihood of a money crisis in this country is believed to be past. No other conclusion could be drawn from the trend of the reduction in bank loans, the increase in gold holdings and the limited credit demand. On November 2 the loans of the 820 banks of the Federal Reserve system stood at the high figure of a decline of nearly four and a half billions from the peak reached in October, 1920. Present reserves are now $2,969,483,000, and of this amount $2,853,901,000 is represented by gold. The reserve ratio stands at 75.8, a gain of approximately 40 points over a year ago.

IN view of this improved financial situation in the United States, there has been a disposition to believe that the advent of prosperity is at hand. These hopes have been colored to a mild extent by the recovery in certain liquidated lines and the rise in the prices of oil, copper, rubber and cotton. Steel production has increased considerably since the depression of a few months ago.

IT is only fair to say that some very close students of the situation do not share this optimism. There is no essential change in the fundamentals that at present are making for continued depression. Maladjustment has utterly upset the equilibrium necessary to provide a free flow of products from one section and group to another, and until this is corrected industrial activity cannot proceed on a healthy basis. The formula for continued depression is perfectly simple: High commercial rates and low prices for farm products do not make for general prosperity. The low buying power of the farming community restricts the demand for industrial products, and this reduced demand results in a lessened demand for raw materials. It is difficult to see in the price for gold any reason for advanced materially in view of the low purchasing power of European readjustments. The heavy tax on the part of industrial countries may lessen the demand, as well, but its consummation, in the opinion of leading thinkers, will mark the beginning of a sound recovery.

POLITICS, both domestic and international, complicates the situation. The action of the House in adopting the 50 per cent. surtax rates reflects a demagogic spirit that is far from encouraging. Many disappointments are likely to be met before any railroad funding bill furnishes needed relief to the railroads.

IT would be futile to predict the outcome of the disarmament conference. The world is merely hoping for the best. Foreign exchanges have been stiffened by the embargo against ginning. Great Britain's finances are improving. Those of France depend on two things—German indemnity prospects and the adoption of a sound taxation policy that will balance the Gallic budget. The latter is probably the more important of the two points. Unless it is accepted by the French people there will be recourse to paper inflation and the franc assuredly will follow the course of the mark.

TO what extent these coldly economic views will be upset by the abiding optimism of the peoples of the world and that unknown factor represented by the capacity of humanity to extricate itself from seemingly inevitable catastrophe, are elements to be considered with hope. Economic theories have been upset by the human equation.

Views of Mr. Burke

John Burke, member of Kardon & Burke and former treasurer of the United States, says: "Disarmament and taxation are the two most important topics of the day. The action of the securities market will reflect these conditions. The uptrend has been going on since July 1. The public is in general, as usual, late not being awake to the fact that prices have advanced from 5 to 25 points. During this actual advance, someone, somewhere, has been buying stocks and an awaking will show that it is someone in the one higher up or he who is semi-professional. Others realize that profits from an investment and speculative standpoint, can only be made by purchasing stocks when everything seems to be at its worst."

Retail Trade in October

The Federal Reserve Bank finds that October sales by the eight largest retail stores in Boston were the greatest on record and nearly 34 per cent. above sales for October, 1920. Four representative women's apparel shops in Boston also had a record, their sales totaling 10.3 per cent. above those of a year ago.

Town and City Loans

Malden, Mass., has sold 6 temporary loan notes, dated November 21, $1,000,000. Dated May 25, 1922, and maturing May 25, 1922, to Estabrook & Co., at 4.06 per cent. Swampscott, Mass., has sold $50,000 of revenue notes, payable March 14, 1922, to Manufacturers' National Bank of Lynn, at 4.06 per cent.

Stocks Irregular In New York At Noon; Call Money 5%; Trading Active

PRICE RANGE IS NARROW FROM OPENING

Tone Heavy at the End of Morning; Oils Have a Mixed Movement

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, but the market had a heavy tone. The price trend was mixed in the second hour, but downward for most issues. Oils had an decisive tendency, Standard of New Jersey was conspicuous however. It was up all the time and at its highest but advanced almost five points. Pan American, and Royal Dutch were fractionally lower. Rails sold off as a rule. Steels were a quiet group.

Trading was active, especially in the first hour, when 1,000 transactions in excess 225,000 shares. Call money opened at 5 per cent. There was not much alteration in stock exchange demand sterling opening a little lower, at $3.39¾.

EARLY STRENGTH WAS BRIEF.

While the market had a good tone at the opening, most stocks showing gains, early strength was brief. Prices began to ease off and before the first hour was over losses outnumbered gains on the list. Fluctuations were narrow, and very few issues moved a point up or down. American Telephone was a feature during the first thirty minutes, advancing more than two points to its highest in four years. Coppers soon showed improvement, several selling at new 1921 highs. They were Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco and Inspiration. The were irregular and steels weakened. Rails were steady. Studebaker, the only active auto issue, was one of the weakest stocks on the list. Little was done in tires. Dealings in equipments was largely confined to Baldwin, which reflected interdiction. Tobaccos stood off, and sugars failed to retain opening strength. California Packing was a strong specialty, selling at a new high for the year. By noon the morning the market tone was rather heavy.

LESS DEMAND FOR OILS.

Low-priced oils were in less demand this morning. It is said that recent buying of these stocks has been largely of Western origin. Steels are suffering from uncertainty as to what effect disarmament conference will have on this industry. Its leaders say they will have little influence, but bears are using doubts as a pretext for short selling. The extent of the short interest is a question. Some brokers say it is the largest ever known. Others declare it has been greatly reduced and is extensive only in a few of the highly speculative issues. High commercial rates for borrowing demand for stocks at the close of the market on Saturday. The rate for industrials ruled at 5 per cent. while calls in general commanded 5 per cent. The same money condition is said to be easy and a 4 per cent. Federal Reserve discount rate is looking likely by the end of the year, the call rate is expected to ease. Considerable money is said to have been withdrawn from New York recently by industrial leaders. The heavy subscription to United States treasury certificates as if the world rates there is a large amount available for short-time investments. Aside from a Washington report there will be no additional government borrowing before the middle of December.

To Sell Copper Shingles

President John D. Ryan of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company says that the corporation is now actively "We are now at work on a plan for marketing metal shingles—both opposed and zinc—will probably be some months before we will be in a position to take orders as the product we have made for date has been mostly by hand work and we now have manufactured automatic machines designing something that will turn out a lot of shingles with a minimum of effort."

Pierce Oil Control

A final financial publication says: "The statement that control has been given the Pierce Oil Company, the Chase National Bank interests will cause close scrutiny of the activities of these two companies and thereby control its affairs. While Henry Clay Pierce will remain as president he will not be, as in the past, the dominating influence. The new interests have acquired a large part of his stock."

GARY'S STEEL FIGURES HELP BUSINESS

His Predictions Have Almost Always Borne Test of Time, Says Spillane

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21. — Judge Gary's announcement that the volume of business in the steel industry has more than doubled in the last twenty days will have a great influence toward dissipating the fog and doubt in the minds of many men. His further declaration of confidence to large prosperity in the comparatively near future is surprising in its broad optimism.

There hardly is a man in America whose views are more eagerly sought or so soon as the head of the Steel Corporation. Why is it? Is he good? He stands in close relationship with the masters of finance, the manufacturers and the leaders of the great body of industries making up the consuming power of the land. He, more than any other man, is in a position to know what industries are being made the largest user of steel, what orders are being placed and what business is developing.

FORECASTS CORRECT.

Practically every forecast he has made of business has been correct. Therefore, his pronouncement will have very great weight. Is it to be good? He stands in close relationship with the masters of finance, the manufacturers and the leaders of the great body of industries making up the consuming power of the land. He, more than any other man, is in a position to know what industries are being made the largest user of steel, what orders are being placed and what business is developing.

FORECASTS CORRECT.

Practically every forecast he has made of business has been correct. Therefore, his pronouncement will have very great weight.

But it would have been more satisfying to some students of affairs if Judge Gary had given a little more detail. When he says the steel business has more than doubled in the last ninety days it would have been well if he had stated the percentage of gain. Was there more than 10? Was it 15 per cent, three months ago or around 20? What is it now, 25 or 40 or more than 40?

We know that some of the United States steel companies have been on a 50 per centplusage all this year, the Tennessee Coal and Iron, for instance, but we also know that some of the steel Corporation properties have been dreadfully late in delivery.

In a period like the present the people crave facts and figures.

It's good news to have the declaration of Judge Gary. It confirms in short what was printed in this newspaper in a survey of business conditions throughout America. In fact, that survey regarding steel appear just.

CHANGE FOR BETTER.

No one now will doubt that the whole business outlook is much better. There are some spots. There are some lines of business that are limp and almost lifeless, but on the whole there has been a radical change for the better. It is evident that the dark spirits of women are lengthening. That means a larger purchasing power for many of the textile mills. Where is it coming from? The 1921 cotton crop was the smallest in a generation. Big takings have been large. Exports, compared with last year are heavy. There is said to be a considerable amount of stuff still in farmers' hands, but some say if the world ought know a shortage of cotton before the new crop is picked.

The new crop may be big, moderate or small. It depends on the farmer, the boll weevil and the boll weevil. The farmer of the South looks to cotton as his big crop. He credited this last season as never before and what did he get? A low price for Not content with that, he is getting a price for his other crops—corn particularly because he saw him.

TO PLANT MORE COTTON.

He is likely to plant more cotton in 1922 than in 1921, and take chances on the boll weevil.

As a matter of fact the drouth probably did as much to curtail this year's crop as did the weevil. It is to state the case differently, the plant was not properly nourished owing to lack of moisture as to make it particularly subject to attack.

There are only a few places on the earth where cotton is grown in quantity. Those are India, Egypt, China, Russia, Africa and China. Ordinarily, the United States' crop represents from 60 to 65 per cent. of the world's total. The American cotton is the great commercial staple. Its fibre and finished stuff is short staple and of limited virtue.

The Egyptian cotton is long staple and very fine. Russia's crop is hard to estimate. There are no reliable statistics in China as to the output, from population to the cotton yield. One thing certain is that China's crop—most of which is grown in the country not far distant from Shanghai—is far below China's requirements, for the great textile mills of Shanghai that consume native American and East Indian cotton and the piece goods trade of China is immense.

LENGTH OF SKIRTS.

There was a huge surplus from the 1920 cotton crop but it was of very low grade. Much of it has been absorbed, and now comes a change in the style of women's clothes.

It has been estimated variously that to add an inch to the skirts for all Chinamen's shirt would require from 500,000 to 1,000,000 bales of cotton. How much cotton and wool will be required if the skirts and trousers of women and men lengthened two, three or so inches?

There are more women in China than there are American women, but per capita the consumption of cotton is greater here than anywhere else on earth.

Style plays a large part in the consumption of silks, wools and cottons. Longer skirts may take up the available supply of wool and cotton before the next crop.

The Boston American's $1,500 Name-this-Auto Competition ends on Wednesday with the printing of Drawing No. 50.

As soon as possible after the answers have been sorted, and the merit of the Walk Right-Drive Right suggestions decided, announcement of the rewards will be made. Your answers must be sent in before midnight on Monday, November 28, one week from tonight.

In the meantime, please study carefully the suggestions which follow. And please read the rules. They are printed today for the last time. Save this copy of the paper for reference.

THOUSANDS COMPETE.

Thousands of readers have taken part in this test. It will be necessary to examine every picture, as well as every letter, sent to us. This will take some time.

Remember that you are to submit a complete set of answers; sixty answers, like those under Edith a Walk Right-Drive Right suggestion.

Do not send any explanatory letter with your Pictures and Suggestions. The checkers will not read them. If you paste the drawings and answers into separate sheets of paper, use only one side of the sheet.

Be sure the blanks is that is, the drawing, your name for the car, your name and address should be arranged in numbered order, No. 1 on top, No. 2 under No. 1 and so on; No. 59 at the bottom.

Your Walk Right-Drive Right suggestion should be placed ON TOP of your set of answers, so that it will be on top of the No. 1 blank practically forming a top cover for the set.

BIND ANSWERS TOGETHER.

When you are certain that the answer blanks are in correct numerical order, No. 1 to No. 59, and your "Walk Right-Drive Right" suggestion is placed on top of No. 1, fasten them all together at the top in the most secure manner you can devise. You might stitch them together, bind them with rubber or use a paper clip fastener.

Be sure you weigh the package and put sufficient postage on it to carry it by first class mail.

If a set of answers comes to us without sufficient postage, it may be disqualified. In addition, we will be penalized "postage due" mail requires handling and extra detail from the time it leaves the mail carrier until it reaches us.

Your set of answers, when received by us, should bear the postmark of your local postoffice, or wherever your package may be sent. It must be LATER THAN MIDNIGHT OF MONDAY, NOVEMBER 28. This gives you practically five days after the completion of the Test.

GOOD SUGGESTIONS WANTED.

In the matter of "Walk Right-Drive Right" suggestions:

You are to write, typewrite or print your ideas of the best method of walking right and driving right; that is, your thoughts on the subject of safe driving and safe walking with due regard to the rights of both driver and walker.

How shall we make our streets and boulevards safe? That is the question how reduce the appalling number of highway accidents? What is wanted is a good suggestion about any of these lines. It may be that your suggestion calls for further amendment of laws and ordinances. Send it in. Perhaps it is a device along the order of the Silent Policeman. Let us have it, in the public interest.

Your entire composition (excluding title) must contain not more than 100 words. If possible, use only one sheet of paper. Write on only one side of the sheet. The paper should be the size of our drawing and name-and-address blank, about five inches by seven inches. At the bottom of your suggestion write your name and address.

HOW TO MAIL LETTERS.

Now, concerning the envelope:

Place sufficient postage in the upper right-hand corner to carry the package by first-class mail.

Draw a line from top to bottom in the center of your envelope, the right side to be used for the Boston American address

What American Merchants Say About American Valuation

Two Men That KNOW—Nathan Straus and John G. Shedd

In active business for himself, for more than fifty years, and never in business for anybody EXCEPT HIMSELF, Nathan Straus, now retired from active work, knows merchandising and merchants' problems.

Nathan Straus says, "The most dangerously vicious, harmful, extravagant, unsettling and demoralizing suggestion ever made is that of 'American valuation' in the Fordney tariff bill.

"It will add to the worries and uncertainties of merchants and interfere with business, by making it uncertain and risky.

"What inspires the American valuation idea I cannot guess. It seems nearer to insanity than to sound business.

"It will give work to thousands of public officials, adding millions to the national payroll, if that is what is wanted. The thousands of officials will be only guessing; there is no such thing in business as 'American valuation.'

"You buy goods abroad, and the government can know POSITIVELY what the value of the goods is. It shows in the invoice, the American consul can attest it, and the custom house here can pass on it.

"The plan of FOREIGN VALUATION has always been followed since we have had a tariff, and is one that every sane tariff measure on earth adheres to.

"To establish American valuation, so called, is to put the merchants of this country at the mercy of official whims. No man will dare buy, for he cannot tell what some inexperienced young gentleman of the American valuation staff will do.

"If you have a hundred different men in this country saying offhand what American value is, you will have a HUNDRED DIFFERENT VALUES.

"A merchant can buy goods knowing what the price is, showing his invoice to the government, knowing on what value the government will tax it. That is DOING BUSINESS.

"But to buy your goods, and bring them in, and wait for some more or less ignorant individual, whose cousin or uncle may be a competing manufacturer, to tell you the value of the goods on the American plan, is to make sane and sound merchandising absolutely impossible.

"If the object of the Fordney tariff bill is to shut out all importations, deprive the consumer of the benefit of international trade and competition, why not say so at once?

"It is mere sham and hypocrisy to say to merchants, already sufficiently harassed, 'You may go abroad and buy, and after you have bought and imported, we'll tell you over HERE what your goods are worth and what you have got to pay.'

"That means an end of importing and an end of competition in manufacture which is just as important to American industry as is wise and just protection, which I heartily approve."

What Nathan Straus, founder of a very great business, says, is said also by others, most important and active among the merchants of the country.

For instance, John G. Shedd of Chicago, who, with James Simpson, now owns the great house of Marshall Field & Co., says, in a letter to Representative Fordney, published in the Chicago Herald and Examiner:

Our experience in buying and distributing merchandise for more than fifty years convinces us that the practical and successful method of assessing duties in vogue for over 100 years should not be discarded for a theoretical, untried and impractical plan that will inevitably increase the cost of living to the already overburdened consumer, and, in our judgment, bring disastrous results to the United States.

The ultimate decision rests with President Harding. He can advise effectively against the proposed commercial nonsense that would disturb every merchant. And if need be, he can effectually squelch such nonsense with his veto.

He will undoubtedly consult merchants that he knows, in whom he has confidence. The two men quoted here are worthy the fullest confidence of every American business man, and of every public official.

What Next?

The Railroads—The Banks—The Lawyers—The District Attorney—The Courts.

The indictment of a Judge of the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and of an Attorney-General, for vulgar, venal crimes is a shock which will be felt in every part of the social system of Massachusetts.

If these men are guilty of the crimes as charged, District Attorney Pelletier has done his simple duty, and Massachusetts must accept the obloquy, which is better confessed and aired and cured than covered up and allowed to gangrene.

The American finds it impossible to believe that either of these men have been guilty of the charges as made. We have never considered our judges as anything more than ordinary human beings, liable to err. None of the sanctity that the powerful interests like to throw around the courts in order to give sanction to their partial and prejudiced judgments have appealed to this newspaper. But we have never believed that our Supreme Judicial Court or our Superior Court Judges were venal and corrupt in the vulgar sense of the word, and we do not believe it now. On the other hand, it is hard to believe that Mr. Pelletier, who was born and reared in Massachusetts and who has held the highest offices and is himself a part of the traditions of the Commonwealth, would deliberately without warrant put a deep and indelible stain upon the escutcheon of his State.

According to our information, the facts as disclosed by the bank account of Mr. Allen, which was presented to the Grand Jury, indicate that he is a poor man, a very poor man, and yet he has occupied for a considerable period a very important and powerful public office and has been in public life a number of years and is a man of much ability and industry.

The bankrupt conditions of New England railways, the unparalleled number of Boston banks which have been closed, the trial and the removal of one District Attorney, the charges against some of our most prominent lawyers, the charges against and pending trial of another of our District Attorneys, and the indictment of a Judge of our Supreme Court and of our Attorney-General fills Massachusetts' cup of shame to overflowing. Neither Senator Walsh nor Senator Lodge, replying to a sneer at Massachusetts by a Senator from another part of the country, can today reply with the same pride and confident defiance that Webster replied many years ago, "Massachusetts, there she stands."

We want to remind our fellow citizens that neither Attorney-General Allen nor Judge Pierce have been found guilty, and that they are by every decent rule to be assumed to be innocent until they have been proved by the constitutional processes to be guilty.

Obregon Breaks Strike Quickly

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21. — Puebla's peculiar joint strike of merchants and labor unions was ended in the simplest sort of way—that is, as far as the merchants were concerned.

President Obregon, who gave Governor Sanchez, of Puebla, his support in the controversy over taxes, advised the Governor to seize all food in closed stores. This had an immediate effect. Store doors swung open everywhere as by the touch of magic and business was in full swing in a jiffy.

The merchants did not want to see their stocks seized, knowing that if they were ever paid for their goods it would be done at some far off day, which would be worse than the high taxes complained of.

The unions which declared a general strike held out a little longer, as the workmen were not threatened with seizure of their belongings.

There was such a row when the strike was broken that Governor Sanchez left the city temporarily to be away from the confusion and to rest after the ordeal of the strike.

Before he left, General Maycotte had taken charge of martialing order in Puebla. The general had been sent by President Obregon. As Governor Sanchez knew that he had Obregon's support, he left the city in confidence that quiet would be restored on his return.

It is said that Governor Sanchez made the mistake in taxing everyone at the same time. Had he taxed the merchants heavily, it is said, the other elements would have accepted the situation with philosophy, if not satisfaction, and these he could have reached later in turn.

India Boycotts the Prince

By Prof. Taraknath Das,

INTERNATIONAL SECRETARY, FRIENDS OF FREEDOM FOR INDIA

THE Prince of Wales is meeting a much worse fate in India than the Duke of Connaught met several months ago. The Duke was boycotted by the people at large and Mahatma Ghandhi.

The All-India National Congress has issued a proclamation to the effect that the Prince of Wales will be boycotted more generally. The boycott will be more complete because the non-co-operation movement has entered a stage of perfection that has astounded the official world.

Situation More Serious

The situation in India is more serious than ever before, not because that the Moplah Uprising is still in full swing, but because of the new turn it has taken. Boycott of British goods has been successful and thus Mahatma Ghandhi and the All-India National Congress has decided to enforce the creed of Civil Disobedience against the British Government in India.

On the 17th of November, the landing date of rince of Wales, has been fixed as a day of national general strike and also the date when the people of India will begin civil disobedience and refuse to pay taxes to the government which they want to overthrow.

Refusal to pay taxes will be the most direct challenge by the people of India to the authority of the British State in India. It will mean real warfare without declaring war by the Indian people. The British authorities will use force to collect taxes, there is no doubt about it. But this use of force will fail.

The followers of Mahatma Ghandhi and others who are more radical than Mahatma Ghandhi and believe in war for national independence will follow the example of men like Ali Brothers, Dr. Kitchlew and others and court prison sentences rather than submit to the authority of the government. The whole country will be a huge prison. Then again it will not give the government desired taxes, and then the government will have to auction movable and real property of the cultivators and other tax-payers. But the people will refuse to be a party to aid the government by purchasing any property at such auctions.

The spirit of boycotting is growing and only the other day the people near Calcutta boycotted the police. Mahatma Ghandhi's appeal to Indian soldiers has begun to be effective and he is every day taking more aggressive steps to further the cause of Indian national independence through conscious national assertion. The best example of it is that Mahatma Ghandhi has advocated the removal of the statue of Lord Lawrence from the city of Lahore.

Mahatma Gandhi is today not only aided by the most intelligent men of the nation, but he is supported by the women of India. The women of India are supporting the movement of national independence not only with their moral support but giving up their jewels and ornaments for the cause.

Influence of the Women

The influence of Indian women in Indian politics can be understood from the fact that the British Government has issued a circular to the effect that if the women be found engaged in political agitation against the government, then husbands, brothers and other relatives will be punished.

Women fired with selfless idealism often prefer to suffer than to be a cause of suffering to their dear ones, and the British authorities have adopted a very shrewd method to dissuade women of India from active participation in independence movement. This effort has been absolutely fruitless and the people of India are showing their appreciation by honoring them with rare distinction of national leaderships.

India has come to her own. She is moving on towards freedom, and it has scared Britain very much. To hold India under British control there will be desperate efforts of various kinds on the part of the usurpers, but the fight for liberty will be won in near future and the British rule in India will be a matter of past history.

Letter to the Editor

Scrapping Our Own Fleet

Editor Boston American:

The British plans for crippling the American fleet, spoken through the mouth of Mr. Hughes, have been received with great enthusiasm by Great Britain and her colonies. The American fleet was becoming so great and powerful that England was alarmed. In a few years, the British fleet would have been outclassed and outmunbered. By clever and subtle diplomacy, the American people are to be induced to cripple their fleet with their own hands.

These plans have not yet been accepted by the Senate, Representatives and people of the United States. They should be subjected to a delay of many months. An attempt will be made by every kind of propaganda to rush them through in a few weeks. We are to be fooled again as we were fooled at Versailles. Let me explain.

I believe that our Secretary of State is an honorable and patriotic gentleman; but I also believe that he has fallen into the snares of diplomacy, just as President Wilson fell into those snares in France. Mr. Hughes, who is "most generous and free from all contrivance," probably subjected his plans for a reduction of naval armaments to the consideration of British statesmen, in order to be certain of their approval in advance, before he laid the plans before the conference at Washington. The British then made counter-proposals to serve the interests of their own country, and it is these British counter-proposals, in full or in part, which we now have before us. This is my supposition, and I claim that it is the only possible explanation of the present proposals of Mr. Hughes, which are so favorable to England and so fatal to America.

SAFETY FIRST.

CRUELTY IS ON WANE IN THE WORLD

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE heart of the world grows kinder. If you read it by the great mirror of the daily paper you will see, it is true, many a record of misery and wrong—but you will also see, if you look for it, traces of new feelings of kindness and grace which have not always distinguished our race.

Take the case of the cat, for instance. I don't like cats. Instinctively, I have toward them a feeling of repulsion. I would not harm one of the pretty creatures, of course, but I do not like them. But of late I have noticed stories showing the cleverness of Puss, and other tales of goodness to one of the nine-lived beings, showing that gradually men and women are taking the cat over into hearty domestic participation.

Children always love kittens, and, if allowed will extend their love to the grown-up cat. Even I can see the prettiness and grace of a kitten. The tenderness of rough men when a kitten comes into their way is a fine thing to see. The other day there was a story of a poor kitten that had been placed by some inhuman creature in a U. S. mail box.

Two Curious Cases

The protest could be heard a block away, and the mail collector hurried to the rescue. When he opened the box, the kitten launched into a long story of its wrongs, cuddling down into the coat collar of the man of letters and so ingratiated itself that it was adopted then and there by the carrier and provided with a good home.

Another feline heroine is chronicled in the story of the survivors of the wreck of the steamer Lotus, in the Pacific. Eight heroes, survivors of a fire which destroyed the ship, arrived in port after an appalling fight with death on the burning craft and a rescue by the brave crew of another ship.

With them the sailors brought a cat which had been one of the passengers on the ill-fated trip. It was a sorry-looking cat, but was credited by the captain and the crew with an uncanny knowledge of the coming danger on board the Lotus. Some one had put the cat on board just as the ship left the pier. No one wanted her, and she did not want to remain—showing her dislike of the enforced voyage by trying to jump off the boat when a dock was passed on the way out to sea.

The sailor's view of it is given by the captain.

"The cat did not want to journey with us," he said. "She endeavored on several occasions to jump overboard as the vessel passed out of port. Had we taken her warning, we would have been better off."

The crew still shun poor kitty, but she has been taken in charge by a kind woman on shore, and the name given her by the crew, "Hell's Belle" has been changed to "Tabitha."

With all those sailor's superstitious fears of the cat as a "hoodoo," presaging bad luck, it will be noticed that nothing cruel was done to the poor creature. Involuntary voyager that she was.

Cruelty Is Waning

From high to low, as the world grows older, cruelty and hardship grows less and less. Men and women are kinder, more considerate in their ways to animals and to all dependent things.

The four-footed friends of man respond to all his words and acts of kindness. The children are taught to give of the fulness of their hearts to the family pets, and it is not often that boys indulge in the old-fashioned beating of cats and dogs.

In a time when there is much to discourage the heart, it is well worth while to look for the traits which show our men, women and children in a fair light. The word is surely eliminating one vile blot —cruelty is waning as the minds and hearts of mankind grow.

BENEFITS FORGOT

An ounce of hard luck will cause the average man immediately to forget a pound of good fortune.

DO YOU LIVE UP TO YOUR OWN HIGH MARK?

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

OUT of the topmost tower of your castle of perfection, you look loftily down upon the rest of us and you wonder why we do not live by your high standards.

Be merciful, we beg of you, and do not judge us so harshly as we doubtless deserve! We realize how puny we must look from your heights.

What saves our self-esteem is the fact that we can always seek refuge in the conning tower of our own self-love and, in similar self-righteousness, pass judgment upon you and the whole of the imperfect crew.

We all "look good" to ourselves, however poor an impression we may make upon others. That holds true morally as well as physically.

When you see a brainless flirt strutting the pavements in evident self-satisfaction, you wonder whether he really thinks himself an irresistible Adonis.

Be sure he does! For self-love, like any other variety, is stone-blind!

And when you see some silly, simpering, underdressed and overpainted girls go giggling down the main streets, you need not for a moment believe that they realize how ridiculous they look.

In Ignorance

The mirror of conceited self-deceit fortunately, and unfortunately, prevents their seeing themselves as others see them!

So also morally, it is pathetically amusing to note how commonly we criticize and judge and condemn, though we ourselves are vulnerable. Indeed, we are likely to be most severe precisely where we ourselves are most clearly open to adverse criticism.

For instance, you have never found anyone complain more bitterly of the mischievous menace of gossip than the notoriously unscrupulous gossiper herself—or himself!

It is a hopeless task—or hopeful only for future ages of moral evolution—to attempt the already ancient undertaking which will bring the average person to the plane of Judging not, lest he be judged.

That would be only decently democratic!

But at least we have the right to expect that you would be willing to live by the standards which you set for others.

To be sure, that is taking the Golden Rule rather literally and somewhat seriously! But why not? You should be ready to do as you would have others do—whether to you or in general.

Not to be impersonal about it all, one may ask why parents should be so insistent upon truthfulness in their children, though they themselves do not hesitate to tell lies, white and black and all kinds of colors.

Really, truthfulness is a basic virtue, indispensable to all social contact. No defect so surely as lying disintegrates the personality and disrupts all social relations.

Truth should be as precious to parents as to children.

Then, if you are a man, you probably have one sexual standard for yourself and another for the women of your family and of your desirable acquaintance.

Why? You cannot possibly defend such self-indulgence on high moral grounds! And surely you would not concede to your wife, or your sweetheart or your sister, or your daughter, the right to do wrong, as you do!

Not Only Case

Nor is this the only case of double standards—though our superficial identification of morality and sex-correctness would make it seem unique.

To give only one other instance, there is the realm of industrial relations. If you are an employer or a shop-keeper, why should you feel entitled to inordinate profits, when you begrudge your employes the highest wage which your enterprise can actually afford?

Or, if you are an employe, why do you protest against being underpaid, or against being cheated in the shops, when you calmly allow yourself to be dishonest by loafing on your job or rendering otherwise inefficient service?

Honesty is more than a policy, it is the unescapable common standard in all democratic relationships.

In general, it is wise and kind not to judge, lest you be judged. And it is only fair to ask yourself to live by the same high standard that you set up for others.

And, by all means, it is well to keep your sense of humor sufficiently to prevent your practically saying—as the famous preacher, Henry Ward Beecher surely did not say!

"Don't do as I do; but do as I tell you—or expect you—to do!"
